"All I know is that it is so hard to earn enough to live on," he said, squinting over fields now abundant with wheat. "Things are pretty good this year, but many, many times they have been

Is Mr. Shanti's inoifference to the end, at least tempo-rarily, of India's 28-year-old democratic rule representative of the views of a large number of his rural countrymen? No one knows.

But many Indians think that the success or failure of Prime Minister India Gandhi's authoritarian course depends on what ahe does to improve the lives of the millions of people like Mr. Shanti and the several hundred thousand villages like Bazidpur.

'Never Enough Water'

Bazidpur, a cluster of mean mud huts 300 miles north-west of Calcutta near the Ganges River, has most of the problems that afflict In-dia's villages, which are home to three-fourths of the nation's 600 million people. "Water's the main problem." aaid one of Mr. Shanti'a neighbors, like Mr. Shanti an il-literate, landless lahorer. "There'a never enough water except when it floods."

These lands, like much of India potentially quite fertile, were inundated in a devastating flood last August. Be-cause of the damage at the time, Bazidpur's largest landowner and principal employer says he canoot afford to improve his workers' pay.

While the landowner, Mohammed Ahsan Raza, ac-knowledged that as part of the Governmeot's emergency program the legal minimum wage here has been raised to 60 cents a day plus one meal, he said he could not yet pay that. The workers said that since no one else in the area was paying that much either, they were un-likely to seek different em-

This statement was made io an interview by Theo-Beo Gurirab, a member of the Central Committee of the South-West Africa People's Organization. Mr. Gurirab, who is accredited to the Uoited Nations as an observer, came to Washington last weekend to address groups opposed to the policies of racial separation in South Africa and South-West Africa, which is under South African control. Mr. Gurirab declined to say

Said.

United States officials who specialize in southern African affairs said today that as far as they could determine oo Cuban soldiers were assisting the rebel organization in South-West Africa, which African na-tionalists call Namibia.

"All they've done is help them on propaganda," said one official. "But the situation down there is changing so fast that it is head to ranging that it is hard to say. Rebels Viewed As Weak

In the American intelligence estimate the South-West Africa People's Organization remaios reletively weak. It maintains

headquarters and training camps io neighboring Zambia. Mr. Gurirab described himself as a 38-year-old from a "petit bourgeois family" in central South-West Africa and "some kind of socialist." He said that his organization had "over 1, 000 but under 10,000" mem bers. It was founded in 1958 and began fighting in 1966

"We had great logistical problems until recently," Mr. Gurirab said. "But with tha Popular Movement victorious in Angola, the situation is changed now. We have a 1,000mile border with Angola and we are gettiog both infantry weapons and beavy stuff, too. group several days before the accused detectives were hauled unceremoniously from their homes at 6:30 last Saturday morning and told that they were being charged with coospiring to accept payoffs from pornographers in the Soho district between 1950 and 1954. rict between 1960 and 1974. In the speech, essentially a review of his efforts to eliminate police corruption, Sir Robert complained that despite his efforts juries had been unwilling to convict more than half the policemen eventually brought to public trail. The lawyers have asserted that the juries that will hear these cases cannot help but be influenced by his comments, and that he has been stage-managing public opinion to guarantee convictions.

Recently in Public Favor

This is not the first time that Sir Robert, who became metropolitan police commission er in 1972, has been in the spotlight, and unless for causes as yet unforeseen he is summa-rily dismissed it will oot be the last.

His most recent burst of pob-licity—all of it favorable— came when he directed the capture of four suspected Irish terrorists who had kidnapped an elderly couple in West Lon-don. He made it clear from the beginning that he was pre-pared to risk the lives of the hostages, and this was enough to persuade the kidnappers that there was no exit. They surren-dered and the hostages escaped unharmed.

But his celebrity here is founded more permanently on other factors. He has instituted a campaign against police cor-ruption that has not made him roption that has not made him popular among senior inspectors—not because they themselves are necessarily corrupt, but because he invented a special internal anticorruption unit that has systematically peered and pried into the activities of the Yard, mainly the activities of plainclothes detectives ties of plainclothes detectives who believe that he thinks too little of the checks and hal-ances of courtroom tradition. One must add to these factors his personality, open and outspoken; and his interests, which include music, especially Mozart, and a deep love of books. He is a favorite in the diplomatic circuit here, and regarded highly by the recently departed American Ambassador, Elliot Richardson. He has been a policeman for 39 years, having started on the police beat in Manchester in 1937 after education at a demanding local grammar school. But his bespectacled face and ironic sentences do not look or sound like the policeman of popular

Areas Being Closed Off

A generation that grew up moder unprecedented conditions of democracy is uneasy about avenues of social mobility being closed off with the edocation system, and worried about its own children's chances of pursuing careers and entering the professions.

This spring, only 35,000 applicants will be admitted to the 34 West German universities and 30 institutes of higher cants. By 1985, according to an alarming estimate by the Bonn Ministry of Education and Science, 1,600,000 applicants will be competing for ooly $50,000 available places.

Ludger Muller, a student at the Ernst Kalkuhl Gymnasium in Oberkassel, has an average of 3 now, but he said he was going to try for admission to a program in medicine. This, the most sought-after field, requires a nearly perfect average. "With an average of 3," Mr. Muller said, I'd have to wait about five years before I could get into a university bere, so I'll try Toulouse in France. My father is a doctor, and it's the only profession I want to have."

Pressure on Teachers

"It puts terrible pressure on teachers," Mr. Mohr said. "A student you've known for several years will come to you and say Please give me an extra point, If you don't I won't be able to get into the university.' What do you do? You wonder if you're going to ruin the kid's life."

A message about the future from Atlantic Richfield Company.

Starting next month we will launch our new advertising campaign to celebrate America's Tricentennial.

That's right, Tricentennial.

Remember about a year ago when we asked for your ideas on Public Transportation? Well, we received more than 70,000 ideas. We found that we had tapped a source of wisdom and invention and plain old common sense that otherwise would have gone to waste.

In the final analysis, our Public Transportation campaign amounted to a whole new form of advertising communication - the public talking to us instead of the other way around.

Now, in our Tricentennial campaign, we want to broaden this consumer dialogue to include not just one subject (like Public Transportation) but all ideas pertinent to America's future. America will change a great deal by the year 2076, and we want you to tell us what you think those changes... should be.

Our new campaign is coming soon to newspapers, magazines, and your favorite TV screen. So get ready with your hopes and dreams and visions.

Celebrate America's Tricentennial 100 years early.

sons belonging to pension fund programs requiring between 10 and 20 years of membership ever received benefits.

The judge said the pension funds constituted a financial security because the members vol-untarily contributed by approv-ing union contracts. Therefore, disclosures are required under the Securities and Exchange Act of 1934.

The ruling stemmed from suit filed in 1974 by John Daniel, a retired member of Chicago Local 705 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters. Mr. Daniel said he was denied pension beoefits despite 221/2 years in the union because he was laid off for several months in 1961. Judge Kirkland said, "The court agrees that there is a great need for the application of the special fraud provisions ... to plans such as Local 705's pension fund."

The decision, if upheld, could mean that all teamster peosion funds would have to make Securities and Exchange Commission reports, thus revealing infunds, loaos, profits, and losses which have been repeatedly under investigation by Federal ageocies.

Visitors to the Mathews's sunny shorefront home are invariably greeted with oews of the latest hargain; "Like this mirror? I got it for a quarter." Such talk doesn't always amuse the Mathewa's children, though. "Ob, you make it sound like we're so poor."
Karen, 15, childed her mother the other day. "Wel we're not." "Well, I know very well that Still, they're oot rich-not Greenwich rich, anyway. Unlike some fathers here, 49-year-old Mr. Mathews is an actor, not a corporate tycoon. He was clearing about $300 a week not long ago, when ha quit the Broadway cast of "Equus" to make more commercials and hence more money. His higgest joh to date

In real life Mr. Mathews says he can't afford to be so casual about money. That's why he huys his teen-agers second-hand bikes and stereos and hlue jeans of another color.

"Red jeans?" Timothy, 17, exclaimed upoo opening his presents on Christmas

"But they're Lees! They were $3.99!" protested his father, who was wearing a two-ply cashmere sweater at the time, a birthday bargain from his wife at $16.50. True, it was an offbeat color. Now, they don't wear red jeans in Old Greenwich. They don't wear fuchsia-colored cashmeres, aither, but then Mr. Mathews is something of a maverick. He evan drinks Genesee beer.

His Genesee beer comes from a little place near the Dykeman Street hridge that he passes on a circuitous commute into Manhattan, designed to beat hridge and highway tolls.

"Where else can you get six large bottles of beer for 99 cents?" Mr. Mathews asked

Yet when he offered to supply his son William, 18, and his friends with son William, 18, and his triends with six-packs of Genesee for 99 cents, he said, they shook their heads and told him: "Thet's oice of you, Mr. Mathews, hut we really prefer Heinekens."

Such stories only go to prove the father's theory: "Kids go for status in certain things. If they can get a record at half-price or a 50-cent poster for their rooms, they'll buy it hecause there's no status in records and posters. there's no status in records and posters. But there's atatus in beer and there's status in Levis and there's status in sneakers."

Status of Down Jackets

Sneaker brands that bespeak status on Greenwich feet are Puma, Cooverse and Tretorn, Mrs. Mathews said, adding, "never Keds." In sports shoes, its Adidas. In boots, Dunham, preferably worn with a piece of down-filled apparel.

a piece of down-filled apparel.

Even William Mathews has a down parka, which he wears to hitchhike home from Ceotral Coonecticut State College in New Britain. "We only paid $25," Mrs. Mathews recalled, "and Bill was thrilled. He went hack and told all his wealthy friends."

But none of the Mathews youngeters. But none of the Mathews youngsters owns-or cares to own-what is considered the ultimate in status at Greenwich High School: the down vest, "You wear a down vest to prove you're from back-country Greenwich," said Tim, with a big grin.

"Gross," muttered, Lauren, 11. "They don't even keep your arms warm."

Lauren, hy the way, was wearing a White Stag warm-up jacket, definitely a status item among her peers. But her warm-up came from a Bridgeport her warm-up came from a Bridgeport outlet, she pointed out, oot a Greeowich boutique. And with the money saved, her mother also bought matching pants and a top.

"I think that's smart," Lauren said,

The Mathews family-Timothy, Lauren, Walter, Karen, William and Beverly-relax in the living room that is filled with second-hand furniture.

Karen's jacket was suede and much older than ber sister's. Tossed over a skivvy shirt and jeans, it exuded a skivvy shirt and jeans, it exuded cheap chic, as they say.

"Oh, this old rag?" she said, with a sbrug. "I picked it up at a tag sale, for 50 cents. My mother has a nicer one. She paid $3."

So the younger generation Mathewses have inherited a certain talent for thrift. But sometimes, they suspect, the older generation carries frugality too far.

Take the Bomh, the children's nick-name for a mostly blue 1970. Volkename for a mostly blue 1970 Volkswagen, except for a brown door and red fender. The tricolor effect resulted from a homa body job, done by Mr. Mathews, after an accident on 145th Street and St. Nicholas Avenue in New York, where he parks to save money. The insurance company paid $780 hut Mr. Mathews wasn't about to turn that over to some garage.

In time, he did break down and have it painted professionally for $40— "by this guy nobody knows about in Stamford"—because "the kids were going crazy driving around Old Greenwich in a three-colored car."

For all the Mathews . jokes about suburban status symbols, their children think their family's values are sometimes just as funny.

At Tim put it: "In this town people think too much about spending money." Here in our house we think too much about saving it. We should try to stay somewhere in between, think about "People," he suggested. "I'm into the humanities." Tim is also into working. Like his brother, he has mowed lawns, moved furniture, and peddled the fish they catch in Long Island Sound just outside their door. But Tim finds it much easier and more lucrativa to scalp rock-concert He buys them in Stamford, a 10-minute drive away, and sells them for three times the price in Greenwich. "Kids here will pay $20," Tim noted. "I don't know why. Some may not know about the place and some are too lazy to drive there."

Ideas on Money

Part of his profits went for a $225 drum set, sold to him by his hrother "with the understanding that he can play them when he's home." And the rest?

"He hlew it," his mother said flatly. Tim grinned, 'That's what I think

His parents, of course, have other ideas on what money is for. And while they try not to criticize their children's spendiog habits, the Mathewses often tell hard luck stories about their early days in a cold-water flat, as object lessons. According to Tim, "They go in one ear and out the other."

"We try" Mr. Mathews acknowledged, chuckling. "But it's hard for the kids to understand. They say, 'Dad, why can't we do this or that? You made good mooey last year.' Well, the average guy in Old Greeowich makes say, $35,000, $40,000, but he's been making money for 20 years. Well, 20 years ago I was doing Macbeth for the Shakespearites and working in a basement for $32. I've only really made it as an actor in the last six years or 50."

That was about the time they found the house in Old Greenwich. "Our higgest bargain," Mrs. Mathews calls it.
"It was right on tha Sound, multiple-listed and in such terrible shapa that nobody would rent it," she went on. "Broken windows, holes in the walls, you fell six feet through the front porch, you wouldn't believe it. We rent-ed it for a year, while I cried, and at the end of the year we hought it. Wally completely rebuilt the whole house, that's how bad it was."

Hearing how bad it was and is one wonders why the Mathewses stay in Old Greenwich. Well, they like the Sound, they like the people. And besides, Mrs. Mathews has become such an expert on shopping on the cheap that she and a friend have written a guide on the subject.

It's called the Fairfield County Bargain Hunter's Note Book and it sells for $2.25 at local stores and $2.50 hy mail from Box 157, Old Greenwich,

But Mrs. Mathews doesn't expect it to sell too well. "If people are like me," she predicts, "they'll read it in the store and copy down what they want. That's a bargain, right?"

In the steady stream of new cookbooks out as being truly fascinating or exceptional. One oewcomer in that rarefied category is "Armeniao Cooking Today," a labor of love written by Alice Antreassian as a fund-raising effort for the Armenian Diocese of America.

It is so full of enticing and unusual dishes that one can hardly get through it without being drawn into the kitchen to try some of its intriguing offerings.

With its stuffed vegetable dolmas, currant- and raisin-studded pilaffs, its kebabs, lamb dishes, and bean or eggplant salads, and subtly silken yogurt sauces, Armenian food is broadly categorized as Middle Eastern, and as such is generally not appreciated for its own sake.

The Armenian 'style of cooking is, in geoeral, richer and more luxurious that the leaner variations found in Middle Eastern countries, yet it is lighter and cleaner in flavor than the similar Greek cuisine. Specialties All Its Own

In addition, it has soecialties all its own-tife outly cracked wheat known as bulghur, the larger whole-wheat grain, dzedzadz, which is cooked with honey, apricots, pistachios and a gentle hint of rose water, to make a dessert similar to rice pudding that traditionally is served at Christmas, and lahmajoon, the Armenian pizza of thin, crisp yeast dough spread with a spicy ground meat and tomato topping, then baked and served warm. Dishes practically unknown to non-Armenians foclude such savory temptations as apples stuffed with meet and rice, a crisply fresh salad of Swiss chard and chick geas and a sublime broiled butterfy.

chick oeas, and a sublime, broiled butterfly leg of lamb sceoted with garlic, lemon, thyme and dill. All are included in this work, along with the most popular breads and flaky, nut-encrusted, honey-drenched pastries.

Most suitably for this season, there

CampaignPlanned To Promote Eggs

WASHINGTON, March 2-A multimillion dollar advertising campaign to induce consumers to eat more eggs is about to be hatched.

In the next few weeks, Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz will be appointing an 18-member egg board, which, under an act of Congress, is resposible for developing a research and promotion program for eges.

The egg board will be totally financed by the egg industry, and a spokesman for the Agriculture Department said that unless there is a snag in the clearance procedure, the Secretary will appoint the 18 nominees proposed by egg producers around the country.

No Government money will be provided for the board, the Agriculture spokesman said. Instead, he explained. a special Government levy on egg oroducers will establish a budget of $5 million to $7 million each year for the board.

Creation of the egg board follows by three months a ruling by a Federal Trade: Commission judge that the egg industry had engaged in deceptive advertising by contending that the possibility of a heart attack is not increased by cating eggs. "There exists a substantial body of competent and re-liable scientific evidence that eating eggs increases the risks of heart attack or heart disease, the judge said io his ruling against the National Commission on Egg Nutrition. Hendrik Wentink, chairman of the egg commission, called the decision an "unore-cedented intrusion upon our right of free speech."

One of the reasons the egg board is being established, said an Agriculture Department spokesman, is that "they want to get this research program going on the cholesterol business." He added that a "lot of money" raised for the board will probably go for studies on the cholesterol level in eggs and its relation to heart disease. However, the spokesman added that the major objective of the board will be to reverse declining egg consumption in the country. A poultry official at the Department of Agricultore said the egg board would not adopt a U.S.D.A. label in its adver-

"A person will not lose weight simply by consuming the capsule, the candy or the pill," the A.D.A. concludes.

"The most the products can do is serve as a psychological crutch to help a dieter eat

"The only way to lose weight is to eat fewer calories than your body borns," he said. "Appetite supressaots have not been shown to be useful int he long term without unacceptable medical risks."

Dr. James Ramey, a snecialist in endocrinology and metabolism, a professor at George Washington Medical School and the consultant to the A.D.A. who did the main work on the report, said that the advertised features of over-the-counter diet pills are "a nonsense and lies," according to the report.

Dr. Ramey asked eight "ap petite suppressant" manufac-turers for studies supporting their weight loss claims. He said that one manufacturer sent him two studies, according to the report. "One concerned pregnant women and was therefore irrelevant," he said. "The other was a study done in 1954."

The only other manufacturer to respond was a concern that telephoned but whose promised material never arrived in the mail, the report

New Bumper Rules

New regulations on auto bumpers will "save the con-sumer a significant amount of money," Dr. James B. Gregory, the head of the Government's highway safety program said last week when the rules were abbao-nounced. "We are also convinced that the manufacturers have the capability to conform to the provisions of the standard and to develop more economical bumper systems," he added.

"Most philosophies of alco-holism treatment are comparable to treating only the driver of the wrecked automobile, regardless of the con-dition of the other members car. But that, of course, isn't what happens. If the driver of the car lives or dies, wa still try to save the other occupants of the car. The same should be true if the alcoholic member of the fam-ily lives or dies. We should he concerned with the other members of this family wrecked by alcoholism."

As Celia Dulfano, director of the alcoholism social work training program for the New York State Department of Mental Hygiene, put it: "It is difficult to convince the professionals to allow the family to work on the prob-lem. People say that children doo't know what's going on. I say that even a baby knows what's going on."

Food Prices Here Drop

The cost of feeding a family of four in New York City dropped 1.2 percent last week, falling 88 cents as a result of special sales of meat and eggs in many food stores, the City Department of Consumer Affairs reported yesterday. "Protein was a hargain all over the city last week," said Commissioner Elinor C. Guggenheimer.

Recent declines in the wholesale egg market were re-flected at retail after a lag that had caused comment by market reporters. With supplies ahundant, tha cost of a dozen grade A large white eggs dropped last week from 97 cents a dozen to 92. Offerings contloue from fully adequate to ample in all sizes, the State Department of

The hig decline was io the meat category, where prices dropped 3.3 percent. Bottom round roast prices declined an average of 10 cents a pound to $1.82, as did bacon, now $2.03 a pound. A 17-cent drop brought pork chops

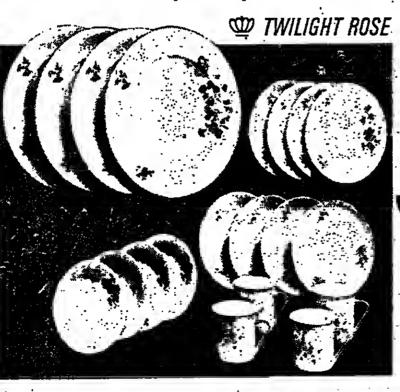

Nathan Herschberg of the State Department of Agriculture and Markets noted that while regular retail prices of broiling and frying chickens were 6 cents a pound higher than a year ago, sale prices were about the same and features at 45 to 55 cents a pound were

Women Take Happily to Selling Real Estate— And Insurance Policies, Too

By 1894 the Equitable Life

la Bernet, left, who is in commercial real estate, looks over a blueprint while on the roof of her midtown Dorothy Arnold, right, sells life insurance, mostly in Westchester, Both have children to support.

By VIRGINIA LEE WARREN The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company had two women agents in 1833. New York Life Insurance appointed its first one in 1889.

Assurance Society had one. And a few years later real estate was considered suitable for genteel ladies. The agencies liked those with social connections because they were considered a help in snowing bouses and apartmeots.

But now that all professions and lines of work are theoretically open to womeo, insurance and real estate still have certain advantages. Neither demands experience or academic degrees and the attitude toward age is flexible. Also hours can be adjusted to suit the worker's

Neither field has yet taken in many more women—men still make up at least 90 percent of full-time sales forces-but executives in both say that they are glad to get women, and insurance compaoies, which have been under pressure from the United States Office of Equal Opportunity, are trying to recruit them.

One reason for the new interest on the part of real estate and insurance in taking on women is the realization that there is a largely untapped market of women who might huy insurance, either because they have become heads of families or because they want to be more independent. Male in-surance ageots have not beeo calling on these womeo moch, because they're so ac-customed to thinking of them only as beneficiaries.

And women, who were not permitted by real estate com-panies to sell or lease com-mercial space until about four years ago, are proving that they can match meo when it comes to finding a 20-room suite of offices for a Wall Street law firm or a floor-through in mid-town for a textile manufac-turer's showroom.

One woman active in real estate is Lynn B. Goddess, a 33-year-old assistant vice president of Cross & Brown, who was co-broker with a male vice president in selling a 16-story office huilding at 2 Dag Hammarskjold Plaza-to the Government of Jamai-ca last year for $7.5 million.

And the women who quaity for insurance's Million Dollar Round Table—the requirement: selling at least 15 policies representing $1.25 million within 12 months—went up to 168 in 1975, from 123 in 1974.

Rexford McCurdy, a vice

Rexford McCurdy, a vice president of Metropolitan Life, said that in his company's sales force the women had been doing slightly bet-ter than the men in the retention of business. "And in telephone prospecting tech-niques and in their ability to obtain sales interviews," he said, "the women appear to be more successful than many of the men."

In real estate, it is taken for granted that the newcomer should be pre-pared to live oo savings or pared to live of savings or private income for the first six months. Indeed, real es-tate is considered a tougher proposition all around than insurance, despite its having a certain cachet because of the aura that still lingers from the days when those ladies with real pearls and finishing-school accents were pointing out the charms of fireplaces and gardens.

Lewis Bernstein, a vice president at Julien J. Studiey Inc., estimates that, in the country as a whole, 80 percent of women selling real estate are doing so part time. This more leisurely approach the genteel tradition, as they work out of their homes, showing houses in suburbs or the country and apart-ments in small cities. Ken sioner of Commerce and Industry and chairman of a task force on the Port Au-thority of New York and New Jersey before becoming president of the Real Estate Board, says that, outside New York, real estate is a women's field.

But the situation is different in New York. "Here," said Mr. Patton, "it's a tough, eccentric business, with a lot of raw iodividualism and brutal competition. There is so much in-fighting that the woman never complain about women never complain about beiog discrimioated against; they just take it for granted that, for everybody, it's dogeat-dog.

Mr. Patton added: "Here in the city, real estate is a shrinking business and there has been a shaking out in it. But very few women have fallen out—they've outper-formed the men."

Thirty - year - old Angela Bernet is one who says she is finding real estate "a marvelous field for women; there's unlimited opportunity." She used to be involved with trade shows, but her marriage ended and about seven months after she'd found she was on her own again, she joined Whitebread-Nolan Inc.; she wanted work that would bring in more money for herself and her 8-year-old son and that would give her flexible

She is in the commercial department, where deals are harder to close than residential ooes, because much more money is involved; with apartments and houses it may run from $40,000 to $250,000, while with commercial space $250,000 is considered small.

Hours Can Be Long

Quite a few women try real estate and then shift to iosurance, because they figure they can get by with sborter hours. That route was followed by Dorothy Arairline stewardess, and got her real estate broker's license right after her divorce eight years ago. "I did a little selling from my home, but I didn't feel I could do more hecause my children were only 8 and 9 then," she said.

Later she found she could put in more hours, but not as many as full-time real estate would require. "So I went into the three-year training course that New York Life gives." She now has licenses to sell in Connecticut and New Jersey, but most of the policies have been written in the Yonkers-

After summer comes fall and Chester Weinberg already has some ideas about how women should get themselves together for that time. Men too, for that matter.

The designer has put together his first group of cash-mere sweaters for Ballantyne, the Scottish concern. His mission is to make that luxury item look as contemporary as blue peans. In fact, one of his designs is a cashmere T-shirt that he bopes men will wear with their jeans.

He hopes some of his women's pullovers will be worm under silk shirts or over them. One, with a fairly wide v neckline, is made to accommodate a scarf as well as a

His turtle-necks are made with buttons up the neck and across one shoulder, to obviate the need for a zipper, and a long slithery tunic style can make a smashing outfit out of flannel pants, silk ones or, for that matter, blue jeans. # Alexis Lichine, wine connoisseur and author will be in Macy's Fine Wine and Liquor Store, March 4 & 5, to talk wines with you!

Come ask questions and chat with Alexis Lichine whose name is a guide line for quality and value in the world of wines. His Wines of France and New Encyclopedia of Wines and Spirits represent the ultimate opinion about wines. He'll be in the Liquor Store from 12 - 1 pm and 3:30 - 5 pm, March 4 and 5.

Try Mr. Lichine's contribution to the enjoyment of good, honest, affordable wines. Each gift box contains one bottle of:

1974 Beaujolais, 1974 Pinot Chardonnay and Rose d'Anjou. 9.57 per box. All three wines are crisp, fresh and well-rounded. Personally selected by Mr. Lichine, they are enjoyed best while young.

Here are more Alexis Lichine selections:

Chateau Lascombes 1972. The wines of Chateau Lascombes possess great style and finesse and a delicious, bouquet epitomizing the best qualities of a Medoc. The wine matures well and fairly fast, and is enjoyable young or old. 5.40 per bottle, 12 for 58.35.

Chateau Prieure-Lichine 1972. Owned by Mr. Lichine, it is a well-known example of fine wine-making in Bordeaux. It's famous for its full bodied yet soft and delicate wines. The wines are known to mature fast and provide most enjoyable drinking even when still young. 4.19 per bottle, 12 for $47.

Chateau Carbonnieux 1972. Personally chosen by Mr. Lichine because of its charm, it's a dry brilliant and clean white wine from Leognan in the Graves district. An excellent example of Graves at its very best and one of the most popular white wines from the district. 3.75 per bottle, 12 for 40.50.

Chateau Timberlay 1972. A Bordeaux Superior. It is a delightful, fresh wine, less complicated than its classified cousins but thoroughly enjoyable at an unpretentious price of 2.99 per bottle or 12 for 32.30. Macy's Fine Wine & Liquor Store; 459 Seventh Ave., N.Y., New York 10001. Lic. L-1.

-WINE TALK-

Well-Known California Names on Table Wine

By FRANK L PRIAL

Events take place so fast in the California wine country that often it can be difficult to keep pace. First, prices were climbing up and up. That was three or four years ago, when wine drinkers around the country first began to discover what many Californians had known for years: that the state's best wineries could produce extraordinary wines.

Then prices began to come down. With everyone jumping on the wine bandwagon, production got out of hand. Grapes that cost $900 a ton one year were going begging the next, and a lot of investors-turned-grape-growers wished they had stuck to municipal bonds.

Then came the word that some of the biggest producers were taking advantage of the grape glut to bring out new and inexpensive fine wines. First was Gallo, the biggest of them all, with a full line of varietals, that is, wines made mostly from the grape from which they derived their name—riesling, French colombard and zinfandel, among others. Italian Swiss Colony soon followed suit with prices even lower than Gallo's.

Next, medium-sized producers such as Sebastiani Vineyards came in with their inexpensive varietals, and finally, the smaller, prestigious, so-called boutique wineries, such as Robert Moodavi and Fetzer, came out with their low-priced lines.

Labeled as Table Wines

But these last added a new twist: They were not selling varietals. While they specialized in superbly made, high-priced varietals, their new lines were billed simply as table wines. Most of the wineries in California, from giant Gallo on down, make table wioes. But for years they traditionally have called them by European names: burgundy, chablis, chianti and barbera, for example.

This, they said, was because their market mostly comprised of first-generation or second-generation European-Americans, who identified wine by the European names. The fact that the wine bore no resemblance to wine of areas whose names it bore was unimportant.

These burgundies and chablis and chiantis were, and still are, olends of all kinds of wines, usually soft in finish and slightly sweet. Gallo's Hearty Burguody and Cribari's Vino Rosso are in this category.

The new lines are something else again. Winemakers such as Robert Mondavi have made their name with sophisticated drinkers, people who know European wines and ofteo are put off by California wines using the same names. So, Mr. Mondavi called his wines, simply, red table wine and white table

Mr. Mondavi's new wines, ironically, are much more like Eureopean wines than the burgundles and chablis sold in jugs. They are dry, fairly complex and have the bonquet of far more expensive wines.

2 From Fetzer Vineyards

Two other entries in this new category are from the Fetzer Vineyards up in Mendocino County. They are called Mendocino red, which is fine, and blancs de blancs, which was unnecessary. The red is interesting because its name indicates that it is made exclosively from grapes grown in Mendocino county.

Robert Mondavi's top grade wines say Napa Valley, an even more prestigious area, but his new line says California red table wine, which means he can use grapes from any part of the state.

Which is not to say his wine is a lesser product than Fetzer's. Fetzer just has a more exclusive regional designation, under California law.

Sonoma Vineyards, another prominent California winery, last year came out with its lower line, called, wryly, Adequate Red and Adequate White. Rod Strong, Sonoma's wioe-maker, said he was tired of pompous laoels on inexpensive wine.

Mr. Strong's line, which is not yet available in the East, originally was labeled to Coast, which meant that all the grapes of from Napa, Sonoma or Mendocino. We supply became a problem at his extraording low price, $1.25 a bottle, he had to change label to say California.

The Mondavi line is generally available the New York area for $2.49 a bottle of Fetzer wines sell for $1.99 to $2.99, depending on the store. The Fetzer is an imaginary that is a strong taste of wooden barrels in which it presumably a ged. The Mondavi is a little more astring probably a little more sophisticated. Both good buys.

Whites Less Successful

Both whites are less successful than reds. In this price range, the lesser wines of southern Burgundy are probable their buy—the macons, pinot chardons and beaujolais blancs—even though they a cost 50 cents more a bottle.

Among other exclusive wineries getting in the lower range these days are Freen Abbey, with a red wine composed mostly its 1973 pinot noir. Freemark's people decithe wine was too thin to be sold as a variable of the wine was too thin to be sold as a variable of the wine was too thin to be sold as a variable of the wine was too thin to be sold as a variable of the wine was too thin to be sold as a variable of the wine was too thin to be sold as a variable of the wine was too the too wines wine for or and are offering it at a reduced price—ag not yet on the East Coast.

It should be noted that many of the line wineries continue the practice of car their lower line wines burgundy and cha and that these wines bear no resemblance the jug wines of the same names. Heitz I lars' burgundy, for example, is an excel wine, the equal or better of many well-kne varietals. Heitz's chablis is also a distinguis, wine io its range. Both sell for $3.69, wi takes them out of the Fetzer category.

Other small, premium, wineries who; duce excellent burgundies include Simi ($2. Pedroncelli ($2.39), Sebastiani ($2.49), Cha Krug ($2.50) and Beaulieu ($2.99).

One department store spokesman said there really hasn't been much in the way of innovation in tie racks since the introduction a few years ago of the battery-powered electric rack that circulates the ties.

What most men seem to want when it comes to a tie rack is a device that will hold their ties oeatiy, will permit them to see at a glance what they own, and to choose one tie without hauling four or five others onto the floor at the same time.

"What I do most of the time is bend down," said the designer John Weitz, who spoke hy telephone from Leeds, England, of his growing alienation from his present rack, which he described as consisting of 22 "ugly" appendages he likened to "frog fingers."

Inspection of the current offerings in stores revealed that racks ranged in price from 80 ceots to $35 and the electrical rack, with the ties held on arms radiating from a circular core capable of rotation; some-thing that resembles a coat hanger, with either a slot for the ties or a ladder-like series of shoulders over which ties can be draped; or racks on which something like the letter "E" provides the arms that hold the ties.

"The only thing that works," said Mr. Weitz, "Is to take two cup hooks and hang a string between

'Like an Assembly Line'

"Swing-out racks poke into your eye when you're slightly hung over," he observed after asserting that "revolving the racks give a sense of industry that I can't face—like an assembly line."

John T. McCaffery, the president of Sulka Inc., a concern noted for its ties, keeps his collection on a wooden rack, two rows deep, that runs the full length of what he describes as "a very large walk-in closet" in his apartment.

Ralph Lauren, whose career as designer began with his work on ties, says he keeps his collection of 35 or 40 between the tines of one of those racks whose bolders are shaped roughly like an "E". "I have used it for a very long time and find it very satisfactory,"

Another designer, Donald Brooks, devotes an entire, small closet, about 20 inches wide and 10 inches deep, to his collection of about 60 ties, most of them black. Running from a height of eight feet down to knee level, he said, are a series of chrome bars, 18 inches apart, around which each tie is wrapped twice.

"The most important thing in my necktic life is at one glance to see exactly what I've got in one minute. There's oothing else in it," he said of his brightly lighted closet.
While mankind waits for a tie
rack that will please everyone, the Men's Tie Foundation does offer some advice on tie care:

Hang them, rather than put them in a drawer—except in the case of knitted ties, which should be rolled or folded and stored in a drawer. Hanging allows the wrinkles to vanish from most ties. But knit ties tend to sag when hung. Ties should always be unknotted when removed, and unknottiog should coosist of reversal of the knotting procedure rather than grasping the knot and pulling the small end through. In the meantime, try to think of picking ties off the floor as good exercise. drawer. Hanging allows the wrinkles

Good, Better, Best Never let it Rest 'til the Good is Better And the Better Best

As simple as this is, it would get very confusing if someone kept changing the definition of Good, Better, and Best.

There was a time (Before February 23, 1976) that U.S.D.A. Choice Beef had a very definite meaning-you could have depended on it to guide you in your shopping.

Then, on February 23, 1976, the rules changed. Now, almost 25% of U.S.D.A. Choice Beef is beef that previously would have been graded U.S.D.A. Good-a lower grade.

So "Choice" no longer is so choice - maybe the government should have called it "three-quarters Choice" or something else to let the customer know that Choice is not as good as it used to be.

Pretty confusing—isn't it?

There is nothing confusing about the Best. U.S.D.A. Prime is still the Best - the very highest grade - the Federal Government says it's the best-your taste buds will tell you it is the best.

Now available in all 90 Gristede markets in New York, Long Island, Westchester, Fairfield County, Connecticut, and Bergen County, New Jersey. Take the guess work out of buying beef. Insist on the Best! U.S.D.A. Prime. Shop GRISTEDES - The Home of U.S.D.A. Prime Beef.

Rare Show of Johann Liss's Art College College Cancing Street

By HILTON KRAMER CLEVELAND-What might be called a connoisseur's ex-bibition—of great interest to specialists in the field, but difficult (if not impossible) for the public to grasp and enjoy—has become a rarity in American art museums. Economic pressures conspire against it, and populist sentiment frowns on its very character since it is unlikely to have a large appeal. It is no wonder that most museums prefer to stick to exhibition programs guaranteed to please. There are, moreover, some sizabla intellectual risks involved in organizing a con-noisseur's exhibition. The more obscure the materialand it is in the nature of such exhibitions to deal in obscure material—the less certain one can he in advance about the result. Not until the objects in question have heen assembled from far and wide—and the money spent on assembling them can one know for sure that something significant has been accomplished.

Even then, there remains the problem of communicating that significance in a persuasive way. Only a museum confident of both its purposes and its support would nowadays even consider such a hazardous venture.

· It is to the great credit of the Cleveland Museum of Art, therefore, that it has undertaken to mount the first exhibition in the United States of the 17th-century German painter Jobann Liss This is indeed a connoisseur's figure who is known to have worked in the Netherlands and Italy, and he died young. (He is now believed to bave been born around 1597, and to have died in 1629 or 1630, but biographical data on the artist scarcely exist.) Much of his work bas been lost. moreover, and the task of establishing the exact scope of his surviving ocuvre is still a vexing one.

Even in the present exhibition, which brings together less than 40 paintings (plus some drawings and etchings), it would take a brave man to claim that every picture on view is the product of Liss's

There are other problems. Liss, like many another young and ambitious painter. before and since, changed his style with unhesitating celer-ity as he traveled and developed. The paintings he produced in Antwerp are very different from those he produced in Venice. It is therefore extremely difficult to form a fixed artistic profile of the painter. His "personality" remains elusive.

Then there is the matter of the so-called "replicas." It was an accepted practice of the period for an artist to produce copies of his own pictures, but these are sometimes difficult to distinguisb from later copies. Among the earlier works in the show, there are two versions of "Satyr and Peasant," and they diverge significantly. In the version that helongs to the National Gallery of Art in Washington, the painting is marvelously fluent and isuous and very hroadly handled, whereas the Berlin version is so painstakingly executed that all spontaneous, feeling seems to have been drained out of it. The innocent viewer can be for-given for regarding them as the work of two very different temperaments.

It tells us something about the quality of the National Gallery picture — and about Liss as an artist — that this version of "Satyr and Peasant" was long mistaken for the work of Velázquez. What we are thus confronting in this exhibition is, if not a major artist, at least an artist who sometimes rivaled the accomplishments of the major painters of his

Some of the paintings from Liss's Italian period show us a still different temperament. The painting that Cleveland acquired in 1971. "Amor Vincit," which some scholars believe to be a disguised selfportrait, shows the strong influence of Caravaggio. It is characterized by a clarity and a sweetness, even a narcis-sism, not to be found in the earlier pictures.

In yet another of the pictures believed to have been painted in Italy, and one of the strongest in the show— "The Death of Cleopatra," on loan from Munich. West Cermany—the influence of Caravaggio is combined with that

evine Buys Film Rights. To William Goldman Novel

Motion picture rights to "Magic," a forthcoming novel by William Goldman, have been acquired by Joseph E. Levine, who reported yesterday that he had paid $1 million for them. Under the terms of the agree ment, the author will also write the screenplay from his book which is to be published by Delacorte in September. 'Magic" is described as ontemporary, psychological thriller, dealing with a young magician-entertainer who is having violent difficulties coping with success and failure and the forces that are trying to degroy him.

"Amor Vincit," an oil on canvas by Johann Liss of the Flemish baroque masters. This, too, is a painting of extraordinary fluency and sensuousness, and would in itself establish Liss among the most gifted painters of his generation. Yet other pic-tures in the show not only fall below this quality but also seem to belong to another order of talent.

This is, then a difficult exhibition—eminently worth dong, but nonetheless problematic. One goes through it constantly rearranging the pictures in one's mind's eye, and there are moments when the unresolved mysteries loom larger than the artist's achievements. Yet we do come away, all the same, with a vivid sense of a significant if foreshortened, career.

It must he said, however, that the show has been made even more difficult by one of the most solemn and gloomy installations this writer has ever seen. A painter who specialized in portraying earthly appetites is placed in an atmosphere of forbidding piety. The instructional section of the show, moreover, with its dimly lighted walls of charts and photographs. graphs, seems almost designed to discourage curi-

In this sense, too, this remains a connoisseur's exhibi-tion. Armed with the indispensable catalogue, scholars have found much here to interest them, but the public has, as they say, stayed away in droves. It closes Sunday.

Theater: 'Lemon Sky'

Wilson's Play Returns at Westside Chelsea

By MEL GUSSOW For seven years, the T. Schreiber Studio, an Off Off Broadway company under the direction of Terry Schreiber, has been quietly putting on plays and attracting audi-ences. The company received recognition early this season with a new play, John Bish-op's "The Trip Back Down" (optloned for Broadway). Mr. Schreiber had hoped to consolidate that success with his revival of Lanford Wil-"Lemon Sky," which, inexplicably, had only a brief commercial run in 1970. However, a recent fire caused by vandals forced Mr. Schreiber to close his studio. Temporarily (until March 14), the production has found shelter in Chelsea's Westside Thea-ter—but Mr. Schreiber needs help both in the form of money and a theater to continue the pley and to fulfill his season

Lemon Sky" is Mr. Wilson at his most intensely personal and revealing. Until he was 17, the play's protagonist. Alan, has lived with his mother; now he has come to stay with his father. But, he realizes, he is bomeless. This is the story of a homecoming, quickly followed by a leave-taking. There is a deceptive indirectness about this play. Almost casually, it envelops us. Alan talks the play into existence while telling us why he is unable to write it. He rushes impetuously from wistful present to indelible past to questionable future, merging time, remembering—and inventing conversations.

The author speaks to his characters—and they speak back. Style is inseparable from content. The interior monologue opens up and becomes a radiant play.

The playwright shows us
father against son and son surviving in spite of father.
He also gives a complete picture of a fractured family environment mother). (Californa with its enervating sense of healthfulness) and an adolescent's state of mind. As we watch, Alan matures outdistancing his 17 years, his guilelessness replaced by self-knowledge. There is no hope for Alan inside this family, and like a projectile he burtles alone into the world. Not a word has been said about art, but one can feel the autobio-graphical impulses behind the play. One can see an artist in the making.

It is man's complacency, his lack of desire, that disturbs the playwright. In this and his other plays, Mr. Wilson is on the side of the seekers and 'the dreamers. "The best is not too good." repeats the father in "Lemon Sky," but as Alan realizes, the father has never tasted, or even reached for, the best. He has boxed himself into a small airless compartment. Alan enters the household with boundless enthusiasm and a splitting headache, and the actor Bob Cosenza never lets us forget either aspect of the character. He is so eager to please and so vulnerable that he is constantly in a state of disequilibrium. Each of the roles is precisely cast and sensitively acted—Lou Bedford as the father, Scotty Bloch as his dutiful second wife (to keep her marriage, she must sacrifice her own humanitarian-ism), Jill Clements and Penny ters, one plain, the other very sexy. The staging by Peter Thompson smoothly follows the flowing, lyrical currents of the play.

"Lemon Sky," in common with the T. Schreiber Studio, clearly deserves an extended

By CLIVE BARNES

This really is the musical season for the golden oldies. Last night at the ANTA Theater, "Bubbling Brown Sugar" came to the boil after a little warming up—and al-though it purports to be a musical history of Harlem it is really rather a thin, but acceptable excuse for a bundle of old Harlem tunes, interspersed with some evocative oames and some rather bad iokes.

It takes some time to get going—the time in fact it takes for the "concept" by Rosetta LeNoire of a nostalgic journey down Harlem's memory lane to be estab-lished by Loften Mitchell's somewhat rambling book. But what really gets it bub-bling is some of the most likable and lovable music around-including music specially written for the show, dazzling choreography by Billy Wilsoo, and perform-ances that take off with the noise, speed and dazzle of the Concorde. Here and there the book does attempt to make labored social comment about the changing stature of the black man, but this tends to

The choreography is by Billy Wilson, who bas made much of his career in Europe, including a long stint with the National Ballet of Holland. This was his Broadway debut and he got the show moving magnificently the dancing being some of the best to be seen currently on Broadway. As Mr. Wilson is also credited with the musical staging and as the show is hardly anything but mu-sical staging, it is difficult to see precisely what the di-rector Robert M. Cooper did, but it all goes as smoothly as black velvet. Apart from the giddy vitality of the staging, all the performers—who have been appearing in this around the country for months now before bringing the show to Broadway—are radiant. Avon Young, a battered-looking man with a jaunty manner, Josephine Premice who is delightful and can almost make a feather boa come alive, Vivian Reed, who is great to look at and sings a fine blues, and Joseph Attles, eak-faced and dourly amusing are the four nominal stars. But many of the others to extremely well includ-ing Chip Garnett and Ethel Beatty as the young black lovers, Vivian Reed in a knockout version of "Sweet Georgia Brown," Barry Pres-ton, superb as a sort of token white with unnatural rhythm. They all help this piece of Harlem hokum to become un-expectedly endearing.

Paris: What Giscard Wants on Site of Les Halles

By PIERRE SCHNEIDER

Special to The New York Times PARIS-Ever since Valery Giscard d'Estaing, in one of his earliest presidential gestures, vetoed the construction of a huge inter-national commerce center on the site once occupied by Les Halles, it has been known that the future look of Ahroad that privileged area in the heart of Paris would be shaped at Elysée Palace. We did oot know, however, wbat that look would be. Now we do. For Mr. Giscard d'Estaing has just released his views on the city's biggest architectural chal-— or headache. Wha the President wants is "an exceptional project, representative of French 20th-century architecture, and a large garden."

Large it will be indeed: more than 14 acres. But whether quality will match quantity remains debatable. For the double ditch gaping where once stood Victor Baltard's pavilions for Paris's central market will not be filled up merely with earth. The eastern one, pompously baptized "Forum," will be little more than an underground supermarket. The western one, we are told, will be stuffed with all sorts of public services (telephonic, athletic, cultural installations, etc.). A cement slab will cover up these goodies and, on ton of the slab, a thin coating of lumus will be spread.

To hope that such condi-tions will make for vigorous vegetation is like expecting a sequoia to grow in a flow-erpot. The trees must be en-hanced instead of being dwarfed by the constructions. the President said: To achieve this, the scale of the future building may well bave to be Lilliputian. Foliage is the smokescreen of our ecological age. The "garden" at Les Halles serves a twofold purpose. It caters to the currently popular belief that vegetation will cure all our urban troubles, and it covers up the planners' and builders' lack of imagination and talent. Mr. Giscard d'Estaing wants the garden to be "stately," i.e., laid out in the style of the noble, symmetrical perspectives introduced by Louis XIV's gardener, Le Notre. This classical look will further be emphasized by a "colonnade" surround-ing the French garden on three sides. What the President has asked for, in other words, is a Bourbon mask to be applied on the nasty reali-ties of a modern metropolis.

Such a project, whatever its virtues, lowers the architects in charge to the role of exterior decorators and thereby almost certainly reduces naught any hooe for a major architectural creation on this unique soot. The recent adding of Marc Saltet and Henri Bernard to the original team of Ricardo Bof-fill and Bernard de la Tour d'Auvergne seems to indicate that no such hopes are being entertained at Elysée Palace: Mr. Saltet's major achieve-ment has been to save the Chateau de Versailles from ruin and to hide the latest facilities and conveniences in the belly of the Grand Tri-anon, whereas Mr. Bernard, best known for his lumpy, Maison de Radio, is a proponent of the watered-down "modern'

But perbaps this unambltious program and its appointed executors are precisely what is needed to fulfill the President's wish for an exceptional project representative of France's architecture in the 20th century. For since French architecture in our time is insignificant, the only way to represent it exceptionally is to build something exceptionally mediocre.

style that characterizes much of French contemporary ar-

No one hereabouts paid the slightest attention to Baltard until his admirable Les Halles pavilions were sched-uled for destruction. Will it be necessary to tear down the main reading room of the Bibliothèque Nationale aod the Bibliothèque Sainte-Gene-viève for the French to recognize the geolus of Henri Labrouste? Perhaps' the exhibition devoted to him at the Hotel de Sully by the Department of Historical Monuments, marking the 100th anniversary of his death, will help repair this injustice. Labrouste belongs to that remarkable generation of French architects born be-tween 1800 and 1820 that included Baltard and Violletle-Duc and that rose successfully to the two seemingly incompatible challenges presented by the 19th century: the sense of history and the Industrial Revolution.

Labrouste was a pure product of the French system: A student of the Ecole des Beaux-Arts, he won the Prix de Rome and spent a number of years in Italy studying ancient temples, baths and tombs. The drawings exhibited, although classical renditions of classical monuments, show a more than 'proper" interest in the problems of construction that was to earn Labrouste the distrust of his teachers. As a result, commissions, except decorative ones, were denied him and be was forced to restrict his activity to teaching.

Fruitful Disfavor

In the end, however, the disfavor proved to be fruitful, for it drove him to seek commissions for hospitals, prisons, model farms and libraries sucb as the Bibliothèque Sainte-Geneviève and the Bibliothèque Nationale, his masterpieces.

Such nonaristocratic projnonaristocratic means: steel, cast iron and glass. One need only look at the private mansions built by Labrouste to see how uninventive he could show himself to be when given a chance. The functionalism and the technological innovations suggested by the programs involved revitalized the eclecticism that was his generation's answer to the challeoge of history.

But the influence worked both ways. The eclecticism enabled bim, and his colleagues, to react against the classical models that would otherwise have restricted his imagination.

Not the least among the reasons that make the reading room of the Bibliotheque Nationale, with its tall, siender columns and its seething, luminous cluster of cupolas, one of the great buildings of the century is the fact that it combines with total effectiveness the oractical and the poetic, tradition and originality. Labrouste was apparently quite aware of the need for such a synthesis and of his own ability to achieve it: On the token that he designed for the Societe Centrale des Architectes - the architects' association of his

COME CLOSER Downtown workers aware of many events in lower Manhattan but wanting specifics might approach that new doubledecker, opeo-topped English bus, hung with colorful ban-ners and stocked with information. Starting today, during the lunchtime period, the bus will be parked at a different site, ranging from City Hall to the World Trade Center, Wall Street and moving down to the South Street Seaport and Battery Park; all on weekdays, with the schedule repeated every two weeks. The idea is for the venicle to serve as a central information outlet and to remind downtowners of the rich variety of diversions.

The project, which has eight sponsoring organizations in the area, is also aimed at cementing a sense of community. Suggestions will be welcome along the itinerary, which starts today at noon at City Hall Park with a concert by Your Father's Mustache Banjo Band from the top deck of the bus; in case of rain-tomorrow. The project of the roving information vehicle has been activated under a lower Manhattan grant by the National Endowment for the Arts.

SHELL TALK It's rather surprising that John Van Druten's romantic comedy of World War II, "The Voice of the Turtle," iso't revived any more, though there was a brief attempt here in 1961. Granted that the tbree-character play was indigenous to its time, centering on a soldier's leave, it must have had something more to have attained 1,557 performances on Broadway, where it opened in December 1943. The public and original leave that the public and original leave the state of the and critics also liked Margaret Sullavan, Elliot Nugent and Audrey Christie. The movie had Eleanor Parker, Ronald Reagan and Eve with tasteful embellishments apparently of his own devising. The Chaconne, although less flamboyantly interpreted than this 19th-century arrangement could legitimately be, built impressively.

"The Voice of the Turtle" (a quotation from the Book of Solomen) Is back tonight at 7:30, for three weeks of Wednesday - through - Sunday performances at the Manhat-tan Theater Club, 321 East 73d Street (between First and Second Avenues). Susan Sharkey, Julie Garfield and Munson Hicks make up the cast and Julianne Boyd has directed. Tickets are $2.50. Reservations: 288-2500.

In e welcome change from the current obsession with "Carnaval" and the "Sym-phonic Etudes," Mr. Scheja. offered Schumann's "Fasch-ingsschwank aus Wieo," in which he occasionally lapsed into buzzsaw, rigid playing and underplayed the neces-sary element of fantasy sary element of fantasy.

A couple of pieces by Wil-helm Stenhammar, a Swedish composer who died in 1927, actually sounded more idiomatically Romantic, putting one in mind of both Schu-mann and Brahms. Mr. Scheja's tone here was plush-cushioned and though he ap-plied generous amounts of pedal, he did so with skill. In Prokofiev's Sonata No. 6 in A (Op. 82), Mr. Scheja's unpercussive, legato touch actually lent that powerful work a strangely gentle sound. Prokofiev sonatas have been slashed at and battered by steely fingered pianists for so long that a genuloely rich tone in these pieces sounds peculiar, if not wrong. Interpretatively, Mr. Scheja did not go terribly deep, but his playing was always strong and musical. A delicious taste of what the young Swede can do in a lyrical vein came in an encore, Schumann's Arabesque.

23 percent rise last year, place to be," said Dick Laza-Business schools, to a far great degrea than other professional schools, get applications not only from among new college graduates but also from people already working in the field. The sputtering economy is apparently contributing to the popularity of business schools by restricting growth and increasing competition for the limited opportunities for career advancement by those with jobs.

Mr. Lazarus said that new Master of Business Administration graduates at Stanford averaged three job offers each last year and that starting salaries averaged $18,-566, a one-year increase of

Adding to the applicant pool at most graduate business schools is the fresh interest that has developed among women and blacks, who are being wooed as never before by the business

An American Council of Education survey found that 10 percent of the natioo's freshman women this year were thinking about careers in busioess, three times the proportion planning to become physicians.

Perhaps another explana-tion for the move toward the M.B.A. degree is the in-tense competition for posi-tions in professional schools, particularly medical schools. It may well be that some students are readjusting their sights and setting them oo

The National Council of Teachers of Mathematics has designated the week beginning May 10 as National Metric Week and is encouraging educators to develop "metric awareness" in their elemeotary and secondary school students during that period.

Among the suggestions by the council are that schools should have metric fairs at which each booth has an activity related to the metric system (such as guessing heights in meters), a metric field day in which track metric projects in home ecocomics and schoolwide scavenger hunts involving metric maps.

fall" of the West would not much surprise Aleksandr Solzhenitsyn-certainly not as much as would a change of regime in the Soviet Union, the novelist said in London during a BBC interview marking the second anni-versary of his exile. 'Tyranny" in his homeland has been strengthened by the fact that "the West has given up all its world positions—the speed of your capitulations has rapidly overtaken the pace of our moral regeneration," he said. Mr. Solzhenitsyn's speculations were particularly gloomy concerning prospects for peace.
"The Soviet Union's economy is on such a war footing that even if it were the unanimous opinion of all members of the Politburo not to start a war, this would no longer be in their power."

Noting that he had "wor-shiped" the West before leaving the Soviet Union, the writer said, "I am not a critic of the West-I am a critic of the weakness of the West. I am a critic of a fact, which we can't comprehend, how one can lose one's spiritual strength."

Bridge: Grand National Teams Field Narrowed by Sectional Play

By ALAN TRUSCOTT

Thousands teams throughout · North America are gradually being elimi-nated in the Grand National teams, the only grass-roots event starting at the club level and ending with a national title. In New York, eight teams survive, and the eventual winner will play for the zonal title, competing with the New England champions and the winners of a heterogeneous area including New Jersey, North Jersey, Westchester, the Hudson Valley and Albany.

Saturday, Westchester section reduced 36 teams that qualified at the club level, to six. The survivor will form part of a bracket of 32 teams in the wider area. One top-ranked team was upset as a result of a beavy lateness penalty.
One of the teams that did qualify in Westchester was aided by the diagramed deal. With the vulnerebility in their favor, East-West were able to crowd the bidding considerably. East made a weak jump overcall of two spades over one club, and West cooperated by raising to game over South's nega-tive double, which implied fair length and strength in the unbid suits.

Assumption Proves Faise North was naturally unwilling to he shut out, and made a cue-bid of five spades. Assuming, wrongly as it turned out, that South had no strength in spades, be was willing to play a slam in clubs, diamonds or hearts. South selected six diamonds, and there would have been a fair play for this contract even if South had not held the spade K-Q.

It might appear that South was doomed to lose a club and a trump, since be would never guess that East held three trumps together with great length in spades. How-ever, there was a way to lose a trump trick and avoid the loss of a club trick, as the South player, Jim Linhart of Englewood Cliffs, N. J., proceeded to demonstrate.

He woo the opening spade lead with the ace and led the diamond jack to the king. When he led a second trump from his band, wondering

South was playing for East to have a singleton club quite a likely event since be was marked with six or seven spades and three diamonds. The appearance of the king gave Linhart coo-siderable pleasure, and his next move was to overtake the beart queen with the king and cash the spade king. When he led to the heart ace the position was as follows:

The beart ten was led, and if East had ruffed he would have been forced to give a ruff-and-sluff, eliminating South'a club loser. He discarded a spade, and South overtook with the beart jack. South cashed the heart nine at this point—a trump would have been effective also— East again refused to ruff. Finally, South led a trump for the eod play and the slam

Documenting Death

Gramp used to take off all his clothes, as if he were stripping eway the encum-brances of this world. Every night, he wrecked his room to show that he would not be seduced back into life by order.

When he removed his false teeth and gave them to his grandson, he was announcing that he had had enough, 78 good years and years we have seen dozens of books on dying: the philosophy of dying, the psy-chology of dying, the economics of dying, the politics of dying. At one time, religion took care of dying for us, then convention did, and now that both these consoling and sheping forces have lost much of their effectiveness, it is as if we were facing the idea of death, of our own mortality, naked

Nothing to Soften the Blow that man is the only animal who is conscious of his impending death, as if this realization colored all our life, But it is precisely since the advent of existentialism that most men have begun to refuse to recognize their mortality, because there is nothing now to soften the blow. Once the idea of an afterlife, perhaps the most ro-mantic metaphor in all human history, had begun to fede, nothing was found to take its place. Philosophy is cold consolation.

Nor does living as fully as you can neces-sarily exhaust the desire for more.

In planning "Gramp," Mark and Dan Jury felt that seeing death, hearing death, was an instructive experience. Theirs was a family that lived with cameras-both of cause this is a most trying experience for the dying man's family, they hoped that their record of dealing with it might prepare other people. They treat death as an intimate family affair, snatching it back from technology, hospitals and nursing homes. Gramp had been a good man for

In medieval times, the devil-They die quickly, painlessly, perhaps in their sleep, with little previous suffering. was thought to issue from the bowels and "black masses" were built around this For some it comes agonizingly, and the theme. In the Jury family, Gramp's loss of drama is mostly physical. Then there are bowel control was treated as naturally as those like Gramp, the "hero" of this book, who relinquish body and soul bit by bit, a small child's. The pictures of various members changing and cleaning him are who go through a series of strategic renot at all shocking, simply tender. All of treats, understood only by themselves, us ought to have grandchildren who ere until the contest no longer interests them. willing to clean us up for death.

The toilet is, the last secret place in American life. In "Gramp," Mark and Dan Jury take the position that nothing natural is disgusting. If we can accept the burnt-out waste of the mind, why should we discriminate against the body? Their book shows us how, after all our emancipation, we still live in terror of the physical, Love, they imply, must be able to cooquer dis-"Gramp" by Mark and Dan Jury, is a tape and photographic record of the death of their grandfether. In the last several gust. Facing our disgust, coming to terms with it, is almost as important as facing our death, for, in all too many lives, disgust with one another is as inevitable and as deadly as death.

In his own way, Gramp died with flair. His senility was sometimes a kind of confiding, sometimes a trying on of effects. Since there is no way of determining what he actually meant by what he did, one can only read it as poetry floating to the surface. When Gramp said to Dan: "Let's get out of here. We're about to be cooquered by the women of the season," one feels that he must have intended something. When he wore two pairs of trousers, one inside out, hlew his nose in a pair of his daughter's underpants, tied a woman's stocking around his neck like a World War I pilot-when he did such things, Gramp was speaking a new language. Surely, the imminence of death has some influence on our imagery.

A Bouquet of Weeds

In the early part of his senility, we see Gramp always on the edge of the family's action, trying to puzzle out e part for himself. He knew enough to want to hold someone's hand most of the time. When he proudly presented his wife with a bouquet of weeds-widow's weeds?-he was turning e metaphor that Robert Frost would have envied. Each time he removed and hid all the light bulbs, all the doorknobs, in the house, it was impossible not to sea these as symbolic acts.

"Gramp" has its flaws—the tapes are too skimpy and not all the photographs: are good-but there are haunting images in it. Gramp lying in bed, refusing to eat or drink until his tongue cracked and the roof of his mouth flaked. Gramp saying, "I'm just going to lay here until it happens." When you see and hear how he directed his own death, you realize that, while existentialists are afraid of the dark, this uneducated old man was not.

United States, Pusher

The arms race between the United States and the Soviet Union accounts for 60 percent of the world's military expenditures, which are now pushing $300 hillion a year; hut the other 40 percent may prove to he more dangerous.

Mutual deterrence has prevented a Soviet-American armed conflict for three decades. But wars in other places involving scores of nations-mainly in the developing world-have taken literally millions of lives since World War IL And military spending in the developing countries is now spiraling upward much faster than anywhere else, partly as a result of the large-scale supply of arms, including the most advanced technology, made available by the United States and other industrial

While arms spending by the major nations increased about 45 percent from 1960 to 1975, the developing countries almost tripled their expenditures to more than $39 hillion in 1974, measured in coostant, inflationadjusted dollars. A study by Ruth Leger Sivard, the former chief economist of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, reveals that military expenditures of the developing countries have increased twice as fast as the economic base to support them. They doubled in Latin America in this 15-year period and went up eight-fold in the Middle East.

The international arms traffic that has made this possible is at least as much the responsibility of the pushers as the addicts. The chief pusher is the United States, which sells more arms abroad than all other countries combined-with a staggering $12 hillion originally estimated for the current fiscal year, although the Pentagoo now asserts that a 13 percent slippage is appearing. Major moral as well as political questions are raised by this munitions profiteering.

The time has clearly come for the United States to pull back from this increasing militarization of the developing world. The sale of arms for commercial purposes-to ald the United States halance of payments-is the most shameful aspect of the arms trade. The Congress for more than a year has had the right of prior review and veto over the hulk of American arms sales abroad, hut it has asserted itself significantly only once. Now, major reforms have been voted by the Senate in the Arms Export Control Act of 1976 to tighten up and improve Congressional oversight. But that alone does not give Congress the will to act.

The House International Relations Committee version of the authorization hill, which is scheduled for a vote today, contains a major improvement over the Senate hill. It would limit the annual total of government-togovernment and commercial sales of arms abroad to $9 billion. It is not a big enough reduction, but it would constrain a program that now appears dominated by the determination to sell as much arms abroad as possible to almost any huyer.

That constraint, for the first time in years, would force the Pentagon and the State Department to take first steps toward the real reform that is needed: limiting sales to allies and other countries where important American foreign policy or security considerations are

That was the case when most arms exports were * grants, paid by American taxpayers. It needs to be the chief guideline again.

Rhodesia: Last Chance?

On every occasion when major upheavals elsewhere in southern Africa have underscored the perilous situatioo of Rhodesia's white minority Government, Prime Minister Ian Smith has ahruptly switched from diehard defiance to tactical flexibility. But each time, when put to the test of realistic negotiations looking toward majority rule io his country where hlacks outnumber whites by 24 to 1, Mr. Smith has backed off, often with an assertion that there will be no black Government in Rhodesia in his lifetime.

Wheo the collapse of Portugal's colonial rule coofrooted Mr. Smith last year with a black revolutiooary government in Mozamhique-and another 700 miles of horder to defend against guerrilla incursions-Mr. Smith did a tactical turnaround. Under unexpectedly heavy pressure from his erstwhile henefactor, South Africa, he released long-imprisoned black leaders and offered to oegotiate on a new Constitution leading to majority rule. His intransigence soon returned and the talks got nowhere.

With another black revolutionary government now installed in Angola by the massive help of Soviet arms and Cuban soldiers, Mr. Smith bas again donned the cloak of flexibility. He has welcomed a mission of inquiry from the British Government-from which he declared Rhodesia's independence in 1965-and this week he made proposals to one black Rhodesian nationalist organization that its leaders said represented a "near breakthrough" in oegotiations for a constitutional settlement.

Long experience with the dissembling and backtracking of Mr. Smith should make every party to the Rhodesian problem extremely skeptical about the possibility of such an advance. The guerrilla war has begun again in earnest from Mozambique bases. It is certain to escalate rapidly. It is led by men who long ago gave up any hope of negotiating with Mr. Smith and who are not likely to envision much future for many of Rhodesia's 270,000 whites if the country's destiny is decided by force of arms.

But most of black Africa and most of the world would prefer that a solution he oegotiated that would lead peacefully to majority rule in Rhodesia and thus remove one of the flashpoiots for a horrendous racial war. There still may be a chance—but it is surely the last chance for Rhodesia.

Cure for Housing Ills.

Mayor Beame has recommended that a compliant City Council extend without change New York's creaky reotcontrol law, with all its manifest inequities.

This failure of the city's elected leaders to recognize any oeed for revising a program that has accelerated housing decay and disinvestment beyond the danger point stirs fresh doubt about their adequacy in either comprehension or political courage to deal with the multifaceted municipal crisis.

Totally ignored in the Mayor'a change-nothing approach are the suggestions for gradual deregulation put forward by such housing experts as Prof. George Sternlieh of Rutgers. The centerpiece of his plan involves a free market in vacant apartmeots and io units renting at more than $300 a month. An operating-cost index would determine rent changes for still controlled or stabilized apartments. The state agency administering rents would not have responsibility for code compliance; that would be left to the housing court, where it belongs.

The Sternlieb proposal is not an ideal solution, nor one that ought to be swallowed in its entirety, especially in view of the many extortionate increases by landlords which attended earlier abortive experiments in decontrol of vacancies and of high-rent units.

But the mid-seveoties are a sobering period in the life of the city. In education, traosportation, sanitation and police and fire services, contraction has been forced upon New York. In such a time there are limits to how much the city and the real estate industry can be asked to do toward subsidizing the housing cost of those who live in pre-1947 housing-and worse, to subsidize them regardless of their economic circumstances.

It is true that many tenants do have to put more than 25 percent of their income into rent, a painfully high ratio. But, as the 1975 housing census showed, 259,000 renter families still pay under 15 percent of their income as rent, while tax arrearages rise and assessments decline. Cut from the same poor cloth is the hidden subsidy to homeowners through artificially low assessments. Gradually, assessment equity must be achieved. But sensitivity toward any immediate harsh impact upon homeowners as well as renters is essential. For renters, overnight cessation of controls would be calamitous.

Partial Decontrol

It is naive to consider rent administration alone responsible for housing decay and disinvestment; nor will a move toward simplification and phase-out alone engender housing revitalizatioo. But it is not possible to conceive of an upturn, particularly for the best-located units in the older housing stock, unless incentives are restored.

The argument that the market is too "tight" for this is specious. Overall, housing demand has weakened, population has declined, and huildings have been abandoned. Vacancies have risen above 5.6 percent in apartments renting at more than $300, confirming that the market already is resisting rents sought by landlords in many of the finest locations.

What makes an orderly relaxation of housing curbs even more essential now is the near total cessation of new construction in both public and private sectors. For twenty years the city has relied increasingly oo publicsector assistance to huild housing for both the poor and the middle class, while choking the existing private sector through well-meant but poorly designed control

This cao oo longer he afforded. Far-reaching tax incentives are already in place to encourage rehabilitation. Now government faces the challenge of an orderly march toward deregulation, while protecting low-income residents with reot subsidies to the maximum feasible extent. Some counterpart of the State Public Service Commission ought to be created to administer the transition program on a conpolitical basis.

New Welfare Chief

Of all the city's many mismanaged agencies, none compares in inefficiency with the Human Resources Administration. By any yardstick of waste or confusioo. it is a disaster area—at colossal cost in Federal, state and municipal fuods.

Policing of eligibility standards is a mess; claims for reimbursement to the city by other levels of government are neglected; applicants for help-most of them already defeated by life-find their contacts with the welfare system a source of endless frustration.

Bringing order into this jungle is the assignment Mayor Beame has given James Henry Smith, the retired head of the Equitable Life Assurance Society. The new Human Resources Administrator differs from his predecessors in that he comes to the post with a lifeloog record of administrative capacity. His talents as actuary and executive are coupled with a lively social concern, evidenced by energetic service in a variety of efforts at urban revival and improved race relations.

He was a member of President Johnson's ploneering Committee on Income Maintenance, which helped lay the groundwork for the recommendation by President Nixon of a Federal floor under family income. Adoption of a federally financed welfare reform program based on that principle remains the only sound approach to solving the public assistance problem.

But until the White House and Congress face up to their responsibility in that regard, New York City-in common with other metropolitan centers-will require effective management of its huge welfare hurden. Mr. Smith's background suggests that he will be able to

Of Judges' Pay and Independence

To the Editor: Your Feb. 13 editorial and Feb. 15 amplification on the Federal judges' pay suit is welcome. The dollar has been mere fiat mooey since 1971; it has been devalued twice and permitted to depreciate along with other curreccies. Mocetary nominalism, the Retention and procurement levels for the judiciary are a subordinate issue. Some feel that those lawyers who can get hig incomes by serving as myrmidons of the rich and powerful should be told to do so. There is now a pool of excellent legal talent among women, minorities and the young from which judges can readily be drawn at present salaries.

The important issue is the independence of the Federal judiciary. The judges should not have to courtmake that propitiate-Congress in order to avoid erosion of their pay. # Port Authority: Actions for Mass Transit Theodore Kheel's Feh. 19 Op-Ed article contains serious errors and misrepresentations.

First, the Urban Mass Transportation Administration did not criticize the Port Authority for any failure as Mr. Kheel alleges but asked the State of New Jersey to develop and submit "a comprehensive plan for transit development and an all-source capital program . . . " for northern New Jersey -an area that extends considerably beyond the jurisdiction of the Port Authority.

The State of New Jersey is doing just that with assistance from the official planning egency for the New York-New Jersey-Connecticut region-the Tri-State Regional Planning Commission. The Port Authority, even though its jurisdiction covers only a portion of northern New Jersey, is assisting in this effort, along with other agencies. Second, the chairman of the Port Authority is not, as Mr. Kheel represents, "sponsoring a study of how the Port Authority might finance a convention center." The Port Authority, 2! the specific request of New York State and New York City and after clearance with the Governor's office in New Jersey, agreed to study the feasibility of a convention center in lower Manhattan or other possibly suitable Manhattan sites. The study is heing conducted, as was publicive several times with understanding that this would in no way represent any commitment as to sponsorship, financing, construction or operation of a conventioo center.

Third, as usual, Mr. Kneel ignores the following major activities undertaken by the Port Authority for mass transportation within the past two Zears: · Continuing the massive $250 million rehabilitation and redevelopment of PATH and meeting the PATH deficit out of the Port Authority's own revenues to the tune of $36 million in 1975 and $43 million this year. · Filing the application, progressing and assisting New Jersey with the project to extend PATH to Newark Airport and Plainfield. We still expect Federal funding toward this project • Opening last fall the $57 million

Journal Square Transportation Center in Jersey City for PATH and the hus • Start of construction of the $161 million addition to the midtown bus terminal. · Engineering studies of plans to bring Erie Lackawanna commuter service into Penn Station, Manhattan, and plans for rail access to Kennedy Airport. To date, $11 million has been spent on these two projects, · Raising tolis for the first time in 48 years to provide funds for these new mass-transportation projects.

Kissinger's 'Hybris'

To the Editor:

Henry Kissioger's speech in Brasilia was more than "hyperbole" as you write in your excellent Feb. 21 editorial: it was hybris, insulting the intelligence of both the American and the Brazilian peoples.

Once again Mr. Kissinger has revealed not only how comfortable he feels with military and dictatorial regimes hut that he has become a liability in our relations with the outside world. If his megalomania hlinds him to the fact that his fnreign policy has heen schizophrenic and a series of disasters, our appointed President must replace him with a more prudent and credible person. ## A Bridge for Paine

In the Editor:

I have followed with interest the suggestions for bonoring Tom Paine renaming the Grand Army Plaza Common Sense Plaza, naming the Statue of Liberty island after Paine, etc.

Possibly a more fitting memorial would be to rename a bridge after him. Paine designed a wrnught-iron bridge with a single segmented arch which he wanted to spao the Schuylkill River. Since oo capital was available here, he was encouraged by Fraoklin to take his model to Paris and London. He was able to get a patent in England for the hridge and enough financial support to have a hridge made in a Yorkshire iron works and shipped in segments to London. It was put up in a bowling green in Paddington, outside London, and visitors walked across aod stamped oo it after paying a shilling fee. It was the sensation of 1790-91 in London. This bridge was dismantled after mooey ran out, hut the materials and Paine's design were used for an iron hridge with a span of 240 feet huilt in 1793-76 over the River Wear at Sunderland.

Someone has called this project Paine's "magnificent obsession." He called it "the child of Common DOROTHY B. PILKINGTON Sense." Clinton, N. Y., Feb. 21, 1976

'The Annual Medical Agony'

By Joseph R. Hixson

The Bethesda, Md., campus of the National Institutes of Health lacks only one facility to help mankind cure disease: an official lamentation center to which white-coated researchers and well-tailored lobbyists cao return each spring when the President's hudget

Fiscal 1976-77 is proving no exception to the anoual medical agony. The Ford Administration is planning a major budget crimch that would severely curtail medical research: Cancer funds would drop from $744million to $688 millioo; heart-disease and lung-disease funds from $349million to $343 million; and maternal and infant-health research would ba cut proportionally from $127 million.

When medical budgets are slashed, anguished cries are heard from various disease parishes: "But not us!"

Benno Schmidt, vice chairman of the Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center, throws bis considerable weight nn the side of maintaining or increasiog the fundiog of N.I.H.'s National Cancer Institute. Houston's famed beart surgeon, Michael DeBakey, insists that research on cardiovascular disease at N.I.H.'s Heart and Luog Institute gct favored treatment. And Harry E. Greeo, chairmao of the National Foundatioo March of Dunes, champions the N.I.H. allocation for Child Health and Human Development

At a recent meeting of anesthesiologists concerned with trauma-the medical term for injury, whether from a gun or an accident—a speaker castigated the Federal Establishment for the scant research atteotioo paid to wounds-the oatioo's fourth leading cause of death and tha leading cause for citizens under forty. Following a time-worn track, he said the Government spends $122 in research for every cancer patient in the land, $74 for every heart-disease and bloodvessel-disease patient, but only 24 cents for victims of trauma. He meant his field was being shortchanged.

Still others complain that too little money is spent on maternal and child care. Funds for mothers-to-be, appropriated by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, are scheduled to drop from $322 million to $211million next year, It's quite apparent that diseases of the elderly—cancer, and beart and lung disorders—get the bulk of the Federal research dollar. Diseases of the young get one-third of this.

Receotly, a professor of law at Brandeis University predicted a hacklash as younger citizens came to surgeoos with vested interests or realize fully how much they were Presidential intimates.

scheduled to contribute to older people via Social Security and other Federal programs for the aged, such as It will be interesting to see whether young pareots will mount an attack on Federal health research and healthcare delivery systems that favor the diseases of the aged by a two-to-one margin over research on birth defects, mental retardation, and maternal, fetal, and newborn catastrophes that have 30- and 40-year consequences.

Who should decide where the bealth priorities lie? When Franklin D. Roosevelt was alive, polio had center stage. Mr. Schmidt and Mrs. Mary Lasker have done their best for cancer. The beart people, too, have their heavy artillery.

Bot the allocation of the natioo's health dollars is too important an issue to he left to wealthy influentials,

Wa have at this moment in Washington an Institute of Medicine, an arm of 'the National Academy of Sciences, Why shouldn't that distinguished body of medical scientists be asked to counsel us on what part of our health research dollar we should spend on the young, old, crippled, allergic, infected, blind?

I see no reason why the electorate and its politicians shouldn't have a go at the level of American healthresearch expenditures. But once that level has been agreed upoo, it does seem odd that lohhyists should have so much influence over what diseases get priority.

The annual and unseemly wrangling over diseased constituencies, or potentially diseased constituencies, ought to yield to some considered judgments.

Giscard: I Bicentennial Tourist

By C. L. Sulzberger

PARIS - When France's President Valery Giscard d'Estaing visits the United States next May it will by no means be the first time he comes to America—nor, for that matter, the first time the family name is heard in our country. A collateral ancestor, Count Charles d'Estaing, commanded the first French expedition supporting the Thirteen Colonies in their revolution against Britain.

As a vice admiral, the Count was sent to surprise British squadrons off New York and also served in the vicinity of Newport, R.I., and Savannah, Ga., where he was seriously wounded. All this, occurred in 1778, which makes the President's journey almost a kind of family bicentennial for him when he journeys to honor the first great national revolution.

Mr. Giscard d'Estaing himself already bas a considerable acquaintance with the U.S.A. He has traveled to New York (where be once lived briefly as a member of France's U.N. delegatioo), to Washington, D.C., Arizooa, California and Illinois, where he spent a vacation. Now io preparation for a oew itinerary (Washington, Philadelphia, New Orleans and Texas), he is polishiog up his English.

This is not an arduous task. His friend, German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt, says: "He has a vocabulary at least as large as an American Senator's." Yet be is working hard to improve his accent in weekly lessons with an English phonetics professor from the Sorbonne. The particular reason is to help him stress the themes he bopes to get across in his planned address to the United States Congress.

The priocipal message is solidarity, a kind of twinoed historical solidarity hetween the French and American peoples. It hegan two hundred years ago when France, then a great European and world power, helped the colonies gain their national identity. Almost simultaneously, the two nations (one new and one old) struck out on a course based oo what were then revolutionary democratic coocep-

These first took root io the United States (although largely based on the ideas of Freoch political philosophers); a few years later they shook France. The point Giscard hopes to underscore comes in answer to a rhetorical nuestico: "Where are we now?" The answer is that both countries retain similar views on these two fuodamentals, democracy and national identity, and our strength remains founded on the democratic institutions we have for so long preserved.

This should oot be taken to mean there are not and will oot in future be differences between Washington and Paris, although in the Elysée's view mutual relations correspond to what they should be be. The United States plainly acknowledges that France is a friendly, allied country which must oevertheless conduct its independent policies as it sees fit.

On most things Giscard is confident there is genuine agreement between the two nations. He told President Ford and Secretary Kissinger that sioce there are exceptionally few real problems, and relations are cordial and relaxed, it is useless to argue much about such differences as do occur, especially in "form."

This type of thing arises, for example, on monetary views or on legal questions involving rights of the supersonic Concorde to land at Kennedy

FOREIGN AFFAIRS

Airport in New York, or oo contrasting views concerning recognition of the Popular Movemeot regime in Angola.

With respect to the first, Giscard seems persuaded that Washingtoo has acted with understanding on the whole Concorde question and woo't be deflected from its grant of a test landing period at Dulles Airport, regardless of judicial debates. With respect to the second, the French President wrote Mr. Ford explaining why France had decided to take the initiative among West European states in recognizing the Luanda Government. It would seem that in Giscard's eyes the only period in receot bistory when Paris-Washingtoo differences were major, involving both substance and form, was at the time Geograf de Gaulle was French President. Giscard appareotly feels tha general was quite right in iosisting on the recapture of a certain "oational" anthority over France's political and inilitary

The Elysée's incumbent clearly supported de Gaulle on this, However, he seems persuaded that despite occasional abruptness, the general was oot seeking deliberately to irritate the United States.

In any case, a certain abrasiveness that existed between Washington and Paris a decade ago has now wholly vanished and when President Giscard d'Estaing flies over (on a Coocorde) for what is virtually a double Bicentennial, there is every reason to expect that our oldest alliance will be sentimeetally strengthened.

Adjusting to Europe

By Zygmunt Nagorski Jr.

the 1980's? What kind of a role will the United States play there? What kind of social and political eotity will emerge from tha changes taking place? Some of the changes are visible, like those in Portugal and Spain, and some are more subtle and more speculative, like those in France and Italy. Some have already occurred, like those in Scandinavia, where the absence of outside danger has made possible the luxury of ambitious social reforms.

Others are lurking under the surface of seemingly satisfied, affluent and highly attractiva societies; they are both potentially mailgnant (Italy) and benign (France). There are a variety of options; a move to the left, the center, or the right. No one as yet has predicted that Europe would move to the far right. And yet United States policy gives the impression of anticipating this most unlikely direction.

Maybe at this time America is unahle and unwilling to perceive and accept the Europeao evolution. This is both strange and disquieting. It was in Europe, after all, that the political genius of early United States involvement after World War II manifested itself. The United States brought Western Europe back from ashes and enabled it to erect new cathedrals of the industrial century. It was that very genius that was instrumental in belping provide Europeans with stable democratic institutions that thirty years ago began to be threatened by the forces of the extreme left. Today these institutions require new concepts and new flexibility. They also need to be overhauled in view of the rising demands of highly developed, highly structured, bighly stratified

But somehow we are incapable of adjusting our own views to those demands. Instead, we cling to the past. The United States appears to our European friends to be a prisoner of the 19th-century concept of powerrepresented by the concert of nztions-and the mid-20th-century practice of dealing almost exclusively with dominant political forces. Portugal is the first to come to mind. There, progressive forces—socialdemocratic-are coming to power after a period of struggle and almost a losing battle against a Communistdominated minority. Yet we failed to notice those forces or to pay attentioo to their existence during the long, dark period of Salazar dictatorship.

Spain is next. We stood by Generalissimo Francisco Franco until the very end, punctuating our loyal support by President Ford's visit there last year. We somehow managed to new political realities that started ap-

Western Enrope , pearing as soon as the end came. As for France, our visioo is focused almost exclusively on the Government. Yet French oppositioo composed of the forces of the left, iocluding the Communists, lost the last presidential election hy a tiny percentage of the vote. But when Fraoçois Mitterrand, the loser, visited the United States a few mooths ago President Ford snubbed him. His opposite number from Britain who represents the Cooservative Party, Margaret Thatcher, was received at tha White House. It is true that those are only gestures. But they count oo the political chessboards and leave impressions on miods. Similarly, ampassadorial appointments are often translated into the language of politics. Anne L. Armstrong, who is going to Britain, earned her principal claim to fame by her faith in the Republicao Party and Richard M. Nixon. In Sweden, where social progressiveness and political boldness earned the displeasure of the Nixoo White House, the United States has been represented by Robert Strausz-Hupé, now nominated as Ambassador to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, . whose views have always been closer to Ronald Reagan's than Mr. Ford's. And in Italy, forces of the right-discredited and insignificant-find one of the most responsive ears in Ambassador John Italy presents a special challenge. It is there that forces of the left, including the Communists, may be on the eve of sharing power. It is there that our traditional political allies appear to have failed the test of governing and responding to the oew set of social requirements. The new power levers are about to move that country either away from us or closer to the Atlantic alliance.

Italy calls for subtlety of approach and political creativity. It almost asks for a vision. The Communist Party may yet prove to be nothing hut a carbon copy of its Soviet prototype; yet the chances are that it may be a party whose political profile is still being formed. By rejecting it, we are risking giving the Italians fewer options; by looking at it closely and establishing a dialogue, we are opening options for them and us.

American indifference to the process of change in Europe could in the long run lead to our influence there being further curtailed, our isolation in the world community increased, our leverage diminished. It is time to look toward the new European political and social requirements leading toward a different world. The one that has existed for the last thirty years is rapidly fading from sight.

WAS Europ If you've got the time, we've got the savings.

If you can plan to stay at least 22 days and not more than 45 days visiting Europe, TWA can save you money. A lot of money. If you want to leave right away, our Excursion Fare can save you from 31% to 44% off the Economy Fare. If you can plan ahead, our APEX Fare can save you as much as 50%. Additionally, by really spending time in Europe your trip becomes a European experience, not just a brief vacation.

By charging these fares on your TWA Getaway* Card you can extend your payments over time.

Here's how the fares work:

TWA's 22-45 Day Excursion Fares

To qualify, buy your round-trip ticket before departure, stay at least 22 days and no more than 45. If you travel on Friday, Saturday or Sunday, there's a $15 surcharge each way.

TWA's APEX Fare

This fare has some additional conditions but you can save a lot more money. Purchase your confirmed round-trip ticket within 7 days of booking but at least 2 months before departure.

Once your APEX ticket has been issued, any changes before departure are subject to a $50 or 10% cancellation fee, whichever is higher. Should you change your plans en route where the return portion of your APEX ticket cannot be used, the entire APEX fare may be applied as a credit toward the purchase of any higher applicable fare.

Obviously, fares like these are going to be popular. And since seats on all APEX flights are limited, the sooner you book the better. So what are you waiting for? Just call your Travel Agent or TWA.

Anthony Lauro, a bird en thusiast in Amityville, in Suffolk County, found little to warm his heart in the early arrival of the rough-winged swallow end Forster's tern. These are unprecedented early days for their arrival," he said. "It means that it poses a danger to all migrant birds. They are only follow-ing their instincts, but it's a misguided incursion. When the normal March weather comes in they get killed by the cold.

"There's no mass migration," Mr Lauro went on, "but we bave these indications that they are moving. It's bad for their survival: they're not going to make it." Reports thet crocuses had

President Anwar el-Sadat of Egypt said at a news conference in Kuwait that he concluded "secret agreements" as part of the Sinai accord last September in which the United States pledged that Israel would not attack Syria and that every effort would be made to insure Palestinian participation in a Middle East settlement. Neither of these agreements was made public at subsequent Congressional hearings. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger told a Senate committee on Oct. 7 that the Administration had provided all that the United States regarded as "legally binding." [Page 1,Column 1.]

Senator Henry M. Jackson of Washington won the Massachusetts Democratic primary in a relatively light turnout. Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama appeared to be leading Representative Morris K. Udall of Arizona for second place on the basis of incomplete returns, with the former Georgia Governor, Jimmy Carter, running fourth. Bunched far behind the leaders were Sargent Shriver, Senator Birch Bayb of Indiana and former Senator Fred R. Harris of Oklahoma. In the Republican contest, President Ford swamped former Gov. Ronald Reagan of California. In Vermont, Mr. Carter won the Democratic primary with about half the votes, running well in the small towns but losing Burlington to Mr. Shriver. Mr. Ford, who was alone on the Republican ballot, received some write-in challenges from Mr. Reagan. [1:6-8.] The House Judiciary Committee, which approved a gun control bill by an 18-14 voic last week, sent the measure back to subcommittee for revisions. The 17-16 vote followed a weekend of heavy pro-gun lobbying. The move probably kills any chance for firearms control in this Congress. [1:1.] The House Ethics Committee requested $350,000 to pay for its investigation of the leaking of the Pike intelligence report and prepared to hire an outside staff of about 20, thus confirming that it would mount a detailed and long inquiry. Its chairman, Representative John J. Flynt, said it would not be aimed at any one person. 11:2-3.] The Supreme Court sent back to the Florida Supreme Court the appeal of Time magazine from a libel verdict obtained by Mary Alice Firestor for the magazine's hrought by so-called "public figures." [1:6.]

The Department of Justice dropped the civil antitrust lawsuits it brought in 1973 to hreak up the Goodyear and Firestone tire companies. It concluded that charges of an attempted illegal monopoly could not be proved, but it retained the right to reopen

The New York State Banking Department asked the Legislature to give checking-account privileges to the state's savings banks. Unless it acts, 165,000 so-called "now" accounts would have to be closed March 31 under a court order. The proposed hills give immediate checking-account powers to savings banks and state-chartered savings and loan associations, and gradually phase in broader personal-loan powers. [1:5.]

The Municipal Assistance Corporation is thinking about making a second offer to exchange its bonds for city notes that were placed under a moratorium last fall. Felix G. Rohatyn, the M.A.C. chairman, told a City Council committee hearing that a decision on a new offering to holders of the remaining $1.1 billion notes would be made in 30 to 90 days. [1:4.]

Many New Jerseyans were diverted from rising prices, tax problems and crime statistics to rejoice over their university's allwinning basketball team. Rutgers, the State University, completed a 26-0 season, and its president, Dr. Edward J. Bloustein, whose budget battles with state officials are not yet ended, said it meant something "to the morale of people all across the state." [1:2-3.]

The State Labor Department reported that the city's economy weakened considerably in January as unemployment rose from 11.5 to 12.2 percent, the highest level since World War II, and the number of jobs was the lowest for any January since 1950. A senior economist said these indications of a severely troubled local economy were a result of auch seasonal factors as the post-Christmas decline in retail jobs on top of the job market's rapid ecline in 1975. ### Cost of Fishing Ban On Hudson Is Called Much Exaggerated

ALBANY, March 2-John S. Dyson, the state's combative Commissioner of Commerce renewed his running hattle today, with Ogden R. Reid, the Commissioner of Environmental Conservation, charging that Mr. Reid had overstated the financial loss of the closing last week of the Hudson River to commercial fishing.

In ordering the fishing banlast week because of contamination by the industrial toxin PCB's, Mr. Reid's department had said that the financial losses would run into many millions of dollars.

However, Mr. Dyson said today that according to United States Commerce Department figures, tha total 1974 catch from the affected portion of the Hudson was 300,000 pounds of fish worth "not more than $100,000." In addition, Mr. Dyson said at a news conference in his office here, there were no full-time commercial fishermen on the Hudson, but rather 276 part-time fishermen who in 1974 worked the equivalent of only "six man-years of com-mercial fishing employment."

"To suggest that there is a major economic impact from the closing of the Hudson is simply to misrepresent the facts," Mr. Dyson said. The context for this particular dispute is the fact that a hearing conducted under Mr. Reid's auspices will soon consider whether the General Electric Company, whose two capacitor plants near Albany are the major source of the PCB contamination, should be forced to indemnify the commercial fisherman for their loss of income under the fishing ban. Alternatively, state officials are also considering whether to seek Federal indemnification on the ground that the G.E. plants operated for years under a Federal permit to discharge the contaminated waste into the river.

His co-workers have included Drs. Richard Lozier, Roberto Bogomoini and Jamos Lanyi at Ames and Dr. Efraim Racker at Cornell University in Ithaca, N. Y.

The work was called "important" yesterday by Dr. Melvin Caivin of the University of California at Berkeley, who won a Nobel Prize for deciphering the chemistry of photosynthesis.

The membrane pigment, Dr. Caivin sald, seems to "organize itself" in an ordered configuration that makes possible the proton transfer. To him, this suggested the long-term possibility of creating membranes italiored to derive coergy from sunlight—preferably, he Said, by the Said, by transferring electrons rather than protons.

Highway Deaths in State Decline

Highway deaths in 1975 declined to the lowest level in 13 years, figures compiled by the State Department of Mntor Vehicles showed. A report made public yesterday by the Governor's office showed that 2,487 persons died in traffic accidents last year, compared with 2,664 in 1974-a decrease of 6.6 percent. The rate of deaths per 100 mil-llon miles traveled was 3.8, down from 4.1 the previous reduction in travel because of energy conservation, more stringent auto safety standards, increased police enforce-ment and beightened driver safety awareness.

The Ford Foundation bas given New York's Temporary Commission on City Finances $200,000 to study several of the city's fiscal problems. The grant came through Columbia University because "there was a possibility of e city default at the time the grant was going through and there was a danger that the money would be opened up to a general creditors' pool in a bankruptcy situation," said Ray-

MINISTER KILLED

He is Shot in Responding to Rockland Church Alarm

SPRING VALLEY, N. Y., farch 2-A prominent Rockland County minister who personally responded to a burglary alarm in bis church was shot and killed by a policeman in-vestigating the same alarm last

The Rev. J. Elmer Hausmann died shortly after having been shot in the chest with a .357 magnum by Patrolman Charles Berbenich when the two meo confronted each other in a basement kitchen at the Reformed Church of Spring. Valley at

Officer Berbenich and another patroiman, John Tallman, went to the church at about 8:45 P.M. after the police station had been notified that the alarm system in the church bad been sounded. The officers said they entered the church, turned on lights and were nearing the basement kitchen when he kitchen door "sprung open and Officer Berbenich's gun

'discharged.''. Church officials said there had been a series of break-ins and incidents of vandalism at the 120-year-old brick struc-ture, which lies in a racially mixed neighborhood just off Spring Valley's Memorial Park.

Chief Gives Explanation Police Chief Adam Krainak said that members of his department were not generally aware that Mr. Hausmann was regularly investigating the activation of a church alarm system.

Mr. Hausmann, who was 49 years old and the father of two teen - age children, hed won praise in the community for hia efforts to build unity among various Dutch Reformed Churches in Rockland County. He helped found the Central Rockland Ecumenical Witness, a coalition of Protestant churches, and had volunteered his own church facilities for a Head Start program and other community services in Spring

Valley. A 1946 graduate of Rutgers, wHere he was a senior class president and a member of the swimming team, Mr. Hausmann served at the Flathusb Re-formed Church of Brooklyn be-fore coming to Spring Valley in 1966. He was a few months short of completing a doctoral degree at Princeton University. Officer Berbenich, who is 35 years old, has been suspended from the force pending a grand jury investigation, beginning March 10, on possible charges of criminally negligent bomi-

Environmentalists See Peril To Wildlife Refuge System

WASHINGTON, March (UPI)—The National Wildlife Refuge system could be the victim of a "planned sacrifice" if funding does not increase sharply over the next decade, conservationists said today.

Representatives of environmental groups told a United States Fish and Wildlife Service bearing that the 34 millionacre system would deteriorate at a faster and faster rate if real funding remained constant through 1983.

'Many of the consequences could be irreversible," said Robert Hughes of the Sierra

The service, in e draft en-vironmental statement, projected operation of the 383 refuges in the next 10 years without any significant in-crease in real funding.

Spelling bees everybody knows about, from a to z. But only a minority knows about blessing bees, competitions to recall appropriate blessings, from all to God.

Yesterday the National Society for Hebrew Day Schools held its fifth annual Brochos (Blessings) Bee at its beadquarters here, with winners from scores of schools competing in the finals.

Since the road to piety is paved with good retentions, these children bad swotted long bours to remember the fine differences.

One blessing aplies to moderate quantities of pastry, another to gorging. Over-fruit that grows on trees, the appropriate formula is "Who created the fruit of the tree"; over produce grown in or close to th eground tha blessing becomes "Who created the fruit of the earth." An ice cream cone demands a blessing for the cone, another for the ice cream.

There are blessings for a glimpse of the ocean, of trees in spring, of the new moon or of a rainbow. On seeing a strange being, one thanks God for varying the forms of His creatures. On seeing an emperor, one must offer a blessing. Even if the clothes have no emperor, blessing is demanded as appropriete to his glory. Car ecust be taken not to utter a blessing in vain. God forbid, though there is a blessing appropriate to a vain blessing, namely: "Blessed be the name of His glorious kingdom forever and ever.

Upon hearing a benediction one says "Blessed be He and blessed be His πame," and also "Amen." The A must not be rusbed, nor the π dropped; "Amen" demands denote the π dropped; "Amen" demands deno libertae speed, lest one be guilty of what is known at "an orphaned Amen."

Right up until the last Amen, parents were barred. As one rabbi closed the door in the face of parents trying to squeeze Into the room where junior girls would be tested, he pleaded: "All right, so they'll lose. It's all that could happen!"

Fast and curious the questions came: what is the blessing appropriate to almonds, American cheese, angel food cake, epples. ... Down went contestants—on buckwheat, chives, eclair, eggplant, grits, kasha, parsley. Finally, Reasna Bookson, aged 6, stumbled on rhubarb, leaving Elaine Witty, 8. triumpbant winner.

So stubbornly expert were the senior girls that Rabbi Abraham Fishelis was driven to extremes: "What happens if you hear good news that will eventually become bad news?" Finally Beverly Oppenheimer admitted she did not know what to say on receiving new dishes, while Lisa Ann Clare recited flawlessly in Hebrew— Who is good and who does good to others."

Among the intermediate boys, the rabbi's questions produced counter-questions. Ap-

You can have one slice of pizza, as a snack, which takes one kind of blessing. But what if you decide to have two slices or three? Then it's not a fast food approach. I'm sitting down. I'm making a meal. It'a a different blessing."

An especially learned rabbi was Supreme Court, and be faced staggering problems. "They're still arguing over the knaidlach [matzoh balls]," Rabbi Goldenberg said

The democratic majority in the House of Representatives overrode Republican objections today and passed e liberalization of workmen's compensation benefits for coal miners exposed to lung-damaging dust. The vote on final passage was 210 to 183.

The measure to broaden the eligibility of coal miners suffering from pneumocoolosis (called black lung disease in the coal fields) was denounced by its Repoblican opponents as "andacious" and "a rip-off," chiefly because it would create an automatic "presumption" that any worker with 30 years in the coal mines was disabled by black lung and was entitled to benefits.

The law that created the federally financed black lung benefits program, the Federal Coal Mine Health and Safety Act of .1969, prescribes in-creased mine veotilation and under peoulty of fines for violations of the standards. But recent studies have reported that exposures under the law are not supported by laboratory findings and, indeed, that the Government's entire coal-mine dust sampling system is of doubtful validity.

by black lung and was entitled to benefits.

The bill would also shift the burden of financing the benefits from the Federal Government to the mine owners.

House Republicans, reflecting coal industry objections, argued that the 30-year presumption in effect would endow coal miners with an "automatic pension," unrelated to medically proven industrial disability. The bill was strongly opposed by Ford Administration offcials, as well, and, after almost certain Senate approval, it may well face a Presidential veto.

The strategy of the bill's Democratic sponsors, and of the United Mine Workers Union, which lobbied victoriously for it in the House, was to present Mr. Ford with the finished bill in late summer nr fall, when a veto would be politically disagreeable at election time.

UNIONDALE, L.L, March 2 Glenn Resch lowered his goals-against average to fewer than two per game, the New York Islanders set a club record for victories in a seasoo with 34, and Bryan Trottier matched two rookie scoring milestones tonight.

All this was at the expense of the California Seals, whom the Islandera defeated; 2-1, at Nassau Coliseum in a rousing, scrambling game that was competitive until the final moments.

With 1 minute 4 seconds to play and six California skaters in front of him, Resch blocked a fine backhanded sbot by Dae Gardner. With seven seconds to go, an open shot by Rick Hampton had Resch beaten, but the puck rocketed harmlessly over the cage, over the glass and into Almost as if someone had given a command to halt, the Knicks' offense stopped last night in the fourth quarter.

After being involved in a run-and-shoot battle with the younger and quicker Seattle SuperSonics, the older and richer Knicks went into one of their static, fourth-quarter "no offenses" and were beaten, 109-105, before a Madison Square Garden crowd

Ahead, 83-81, entering the last period, the Knicks missed their first 11 shots—jumpers, layups, tips—before a Neal Walk hook gave them their first field goal after almost four minutes of play.

Meanwhile, the Philadel-phia 76ers are doing almost everything possible to hand the Knicks the National Baskethall Association Eastern Conference playoff berth, and New York's response has been: "No, thanks." The slumping 76ers were beaten hy the Washington Bullets, 128-111, last night.

While the Knicks began to stand around in the fourth period, almost as if they were posing for their annual picture, Walk, with a season scoring average of 7.1, became the prime shooter.

Red Smith Like the Gentle Rain From Bowie

. By granting a parole to George M. Steinbrenner 3d, Bowie Kuhn has shown once again what scholars knew all along—that haseball's supreme being is not only all-wise but also all-merciful. After all, this is not the high commissioner's first display of lenience. When he learned that Denny McLain was moonlighting as a bookmaker, he ex-cused it as an "aberration" and suspended the pitcher for only that half of the season for which Denny had already drawn his pay, and later he forgave McLain for toting a

Clemency is all the rage these days among men in authority, and although Bowie didn't give Steinhrenner a full pardon he did follow Judge John Sirica's example and shortened the

Thus nobody familiar with the commissioner's forgiv-ing nature was surprised when the Yankees principal owner and chief executive officer was reinstated after serving 15 months of a two-year suspension from baseball. It is Steinbrenner who's going to be surprised when he finds out what happened while be was gooe.

Wait till he looks in the petty cash drawer and discovers that his stand-in, Patrick Cunningham, or Gabe Paul, the Yankees' president, or somebody around the place spent $3.75 million for one pitcher. Wait till he hears that somebody fired Bill Virdon, the manager Steinbrenner hed hired, or that somabody traded his $100,000 outfielder, Bobby Murcer for Bobby Bonds and then traded Bonds away. Wait till he learns that the taxpayers of New York really did go ahead and huild him that new ball park. He'll feel like Rip Van Winkle coming home.

Integrity Forever

Of course, during the months when he was "incompetent and ineligible" for "any association whatsoever with any major league club or its personnel," he may have been reading the papers. It is also possible that he had occasion to drive up the Major Deegan Expressway and happened to see work progressing on Yankee Stadium. A week or so ago an item reported the presence of Steinhrenner and Billy Martin at a baseball clinic in Curacao, so it seems prohable that the Yankees' owner and manager have al-tril. Clockers never "My November 1974 decision placing Mr. Steinbrenner on the ineligible list," Kuhn explained, "was designed to assure public confidence in the integrity of professional baseball I think that purpose has been achieved."

in baseball's integrity was reinforced when be ruled that there was no room in the game for admitted felons and wouldn't be until next November, then just moving the deadline up to March isn't going to shatter that confidence.

Anyway, since November 1974, the public has read about Lockheed and the Central Intelligence Agency and the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Internal Revenue Service and the Committee for the Re-election of the President, and the chances are George M. Steinbrenner 3d has taken on an aura of saintliness in many eyes.

To he sure, be did make illegal campaign contributions in an attempt to buy political good will for his com-pany, American Ship Building, and he could have got six years in the slammer. However, the kind of money he laid out wouldn't buy him an introduction to Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands, and our Government spends more illegally on political campaigns in Chile and Italy than American Ship Building and the Yankees earn between

Moreover, Steinbrenner never plotted to assassinate anybody or tried to induce anyone to commit suicide or erased any part of a tape or, as far as the record shows, succeeded in persuading any employees to commit perjury for him. He has never held up a bank or been suspected of diverting a bank's money to improper use or of selling judgeships. He hasn't even been knocked out by Muhammad Ali, for which Jean-Pierre Coopman got a two-year suspension and his manager got life.

So the fact that he can now pass the time of day with Gahe Paul with out fear of being overheard is not a major scandal, even in the eyes of those who feel that felons shouldn't be in baseball, particularly on the management

It must be said that Kuhn has exhibited a nice sense of timing in the case. After forbidding Steinbrenner any connection with baseball whatever, the commissioner gave him a dispensation to attend a major league meeting last summer and cast the Yankees' vote against a group that was out to get Bowia's job. And now George joins the lodga just in time to hid for Andy Messersmith.

He can also make all the inspirational clubbouse speeches the players can take. When he wanted to rouse the troops during his exile, be had to make a recording and send it to the clubhouse. Ron Swoboda says Billy Martin prefers it that way because he can shut the record off whenever he likes.

Zambi said that youngsters across the country had begun to follow the examples of Bayi and Suleiman Nyambui Mujaya, who won the three-mile run in the A.A.U. meet. Track and field is at the takeoff point in Tanzania. "We have many youngsters with great potential," said Zambi. "Our problem is the lack of equipment and tracks, but Filbert and Nyambui have shown the young-Bayi and Suleiman Nyambui sters that the route to suc-cess is hard work and regular training.

"Our young people like to run, to compete. But all they have done in the past is run, and they have been satisfied with beating whomever they happened to be racing against. Now that there is talk of records and medals and trips abroad they have something to aim for. And Filbert and Nyambui are teaching them that, if they are prepared to make sacrifices, there are rewards to be earned."

Zambl and Nyambul point out that sports development follows exactly the Tanzanian development policy, which is summed up in the national slogan, "Ujamaa na Kujitegemea," which means Kujitegemea," which means "familyhood and self-reliance. In Nyambui's words, "We are Arusha Declaration ath-letes." The Arusha Declaration, made in 1967, states that Tanzania has little money and less prospects of getting aoy, therefore, it must concentrate its development program in its principal resources; meaning its collections. resource: people. It calls for hard work, with no expecta-tion of outside help. Zambi used Nyambul as ry-school teacher. Like every other teacher, he must prepare lessons, teach them, mark papers, coach sports, counsel students. In between, he has to find time to train. It is very hard, but his dedication is an inspiration to .young athletes.

We believe that It would be a great help to our athletes if we had more facilities and equipment. There are only a few tracks, and only two have cinders on them. we understand that sports must have a low priority in the hudget of a poor country like ours.

Our low price is less than it appears to be.

What's more surprising than our law price is how much more it includes. Like discounts on fires. And discounts on batteries. And coast-to-coast service, too.

A low price is always a nice place to begin. But at Avis it doesn't

He is 6 feet 5 inches tall with a short beard and tends to frown when a referee's decision goes against him. A product of street and schoolward, heakethall, in schoolyard basketball in Brooklyn, Sellers leaps for more rebounds that any other Rutgers player, shoots for more points and races the length of the court on both offense and defense.

Considered a hit unmanageable earlier in his Rutgers career. Sellers became a defensive star this season doubling his already high value as a player. He does not draw as many technical fouls as he used to when he was noted for repeated arguments and a rather free use of arms and bands. The other senior starter

It is Stein's opinion that Rossini's handling of Molinas was one of the main reasons Columbia went undefeated.
"I don't think Molinas would have played under Ridings," said Stein. "I also think Lou probably helped us by keeping us loose. Ridings had well-schooled in the fundamentals, but Lou let us play to our full potential."

There was still a close call. After the Cornell rout, Columbia's winning streak— which began with the last 10 games of the 1949-50 season-was almost ended by Princeton. With the score

World Cup Title to Soviet Wrestlers

TOLEDO, Oblo, March 2 (AP)-The Soviet Union defeated the United States team, 16-4, to earn its fourth straight World Cup of Wrestling title last night. Iran defeated Canada, 18-2, in the other final match to capture second place in the final team standing.

The United States and Iran each finished with 3 team points, hut Irao was awarded second plece because of its better performance Sunday against the Soviet team. Canada failed to score a team point, but Egan Beiler, who finished second in the 1975 World Cup, won the 136.5pound individual title for his country, Brad Rheingans of Appleton, Mico., won the only individual title for the United States at 198 pounds. He woo his final match on a forfeit, as the Soviet Union did not compete at that weight.

Ithaca College Drops Hockey

ITHACA, N. Y., March 2 (UPI)-Ithaca College today dropped its varsity bockey program. The hockey team finished the 1975-76 season with an 8-11 won-lost record and a 3-10 mark in the Eastern College Athletic Association Division. Charles Kerr, the athletic director, cited the lack of a campus rink, scheduling problems for practice and in-creasing costs as the major factors involved in the decision to drop the sport.

Advertising

Cable TV Offers $50 Time Slots

How does this sound to you? You buy an hour's time on television for $50, do your own programming (or no programming) and then sell off as much of the hour as you want for commercials.

Is that heaven? No, it's Channel J on Manhattan Cable that went into operation this week.

There will be about 40 programs running weekly during a three-month test, and the various producers are going about getting advertising io their own ways.

Arnie Rosenthal, the 24year-old president of Shamus Productions, Valley Stream, L. I., is producing four shows including "The Big Give-away", a game show thet allows Manhattan Cahle sub-scribers to participate for scribers to participate for prizes by telephone. He has three advertisers but doesn't disclose his rates since, he said, they're negotiable. He said there's eo ad agency interested in taking on the joh of selling time for all of his shows.

James J. Rucquoi, a for-mer eccount man at Benton advertising and video pro-duction et Baruch College, has an all-advertising program that will be on for a half hour ($25) "after Cronkite and before prime time."

The same tape will run for a week, and Mr. Rucquoi sees future advertisers trying their commercials in with print referral ads—"See Channel J for a demonstra-

What Mr. Rucquoi is asking from advertisers is peanuts compared to what Al Goldstein, poblisher of Screw, says he's getting from ad-vertisers in his program "Midnight Blue." which he describes as soft core.

This show, an ad for which ran in yesterday's New York. Times, is scheduled for three nights a week, and the same show will run each night for a week. Adver-tisers, Mr. Goldstein said, are paying $350 for oneminute three times a week and he's got 10 advertisers.

Frederic Davies, astrologer and Tarot Card reader, will have his half-hour "Star Power Show" on three nights a week prefers an advertiser to be a full sponsor at up to $500 per, night.

Currently his sponsor is the Statler Hilton, he said. The producers' problem when it comes to selling edvertising time—a problem not faced by commercial stations—Is that they are unable to define clearly their audience only the potential audience of subscribers. · According to Charlotte Schiff Jones, a vice president of Manhattan Cable, the potential includes 80,000 homes, 8,000 hotel rooms and 'several hundred" public places. She puts the potential "viewership" at almost 250,-000. They are all in the southern half of Manhattan.

Meanwhile at Teleprompter Manhattan, which services the northern half, Joseph W. Taylor, the president, saye that "hopefully" he'll have a similar channel in operation by April 15.

The exceptionally strong stock market this year appears to have surprised many major institutional investors. The results of a survey released last week by Callan Associates Inc. of San Fran-cisco show that 67 Organizations representing $52 billion in pension fund assets had expected the stock market to gain no more in all of 1976 than it already has in the last two months.

The Callan organizatioo monitors investment performmonitors investment performance of employes beoefit funds. And every six months it polls banks, insurance companies and investment counseling firms that handle such funds to learn their future investment strategy. The latest questionnaire went to 100 institutions.

The 67 institutions that responded, on average, thought the stock market would advance about 16 percent this year—15.7 percent as measured by the Standard & Poor's 500-stock index, and 15.9 percent in terms of the Dow Jones industrial

At the time the survey was completed several weeks ago, the 67 institutions' equity holdings represented 64 percent of assets. They said then that their goal was to reduce this percent to 59 then that their goal was to reduce this proportion to 59 percent of assets under management by the end of 1976.
Edwin C. Callan, president of Callan Associates, said in a recent telephone interview that he did not know if the institutions' intection of selling shares on helence selling shares oo balance this year had been altered by the stock market's strong rise. If oot, he estimates that the 67 institutions will reduce their stock commitment by about $4.7 billion. Meanwhile, bowever, the institutions will he receiving new pension-fund contributions and divideod income, some of which presumably would go into common stocks.

Mr. Callan said he believed that the institutions were likely to alter their strategy to a degree. He said: "If the market is up 16 percent in two months, they may be hoping for additional gains. If they get a 20 to 25 percent increase in the months ahead, I think they would be even more inclined to reduce the percentage of assets in equities."

The institutions are concerned lest they be faulted in terms of the high standards of prudence to which they are held under the Pen-sion Reform Act of 1974.

New-Tape Complaints

A number of investors have complained that the addition-al information available oo the new composite tape, now incorporated ioto the stock

When your energy project requires major financing, consider Morgan Guaranty

Projects for extracting and processing the earth's energyyielding resources are large and complex. They often involve multicompany and multicountry partnerships, tough engineering problems, and vast amounts of capital in several currencies.

Energy companies need a bank that understands project finance—a bank with international specialists who know the technical aspects of the energy industry, how a project's output can be used to support a loan, where to locate major sources of funds, worldwide.

Morgan Guaranty has this know-how. Our energy group, with experienced bankers stationed in key centers of petroleum finance, will help you assess the economics of your project in relation to financial risk. The group includes engineers who can analyze the technical problems of energy-related financings. These capabilities equip us to structure a financial package to fit all the requirements of a project—from issuing letters of credit for crude in transit to forming a multibank group for raising development capital.

Morgan specialists have organized the financing of energy projects from Argentina to the Middle East, oil field development from the North Sea to Australia, mineral development from Florida to the Philippines. We're ready to consult with you, anywhere in the world.

Klein's Plan Gives Union Square a Prophet

The venerable institution that sells pretzels on the corner of 14th Street at Union Square, just outside the now closed S. Klein department store, calls herself Ida, the Pretzel Lady.

lda says she is 71 years old and has been there at least 18 years. "1 don't do any business anymore," she said. "I will tell you the truth, I'm so heartbroken I don't know what to do.' Listen, honey, I am asking you to find out if they will

Reopen it will, Ida, when Julio Tanjeloff's plans go through. It is oo easy matter nailing down the agreement to lease the 11 buildings on tha Klein site from the Klein estate (50 individuals, 3 administrators), while at the same time closing on the lease to operate the store. The McCrory Corporation holds the operating lease, and shut down the store in

But Mr. Tanjeloff, a S9year-old Argentine lawyer who owns Astro Minerals Rosenthal Studio-Haus on Fifth Avenue, expects the Klein doors on Union Square to reopen by September. Which is not to say that the total renovation—at one time estimated at $16 million —will be finished by then. It will be dooe in stages. It is to say, though, that 14th Street will have, and already does have, a new prophet. One who is unashamed to procounce, from a simple table in a bare private office on the top floor of Jensen on Madison Avenue, "I believe I will he the catalyst to put together the forces to reorganize structure of the area." Out comes the yellow pad and pencil. Down goes the diagram showing Union Square as the hub of an affluent shopping market: Gramercy Park on one side and Stuyvesant Town just a little farther off; Greeowich Village and lower Fifth Avenue in the other direction; apartment houses all about on the side streets.

Tha Tanjeloff Klein's will not be the discount-clothing department store of old, it seems. The object is to make a full department store, with soft goods and bard goods-in 168 departments catering to the downtown shoppers way uptown to find a fullline store.

Klein'a surely has the space. There are 300,000 aquare feet in the 11 old buildings between 14th and 15th Streets, not counting the annex, a block north. The architects—Andrew S. downtown around the aguare. Another is the expansion of the southern end of Union Square Park, filling out its borseshoe shape through the construction of triangular "islands." Such a triangle at the southeast corner of the park would make it easier to cross to Klein's. And Mr. Tanjeloff would like ao arrangement with the city for the construction of underground parking for 350 cars at the north end of the park, below a strip now given to aurface-level park-ing. He also hopes for a second indoor parking facili-ty for 350 cars on city-owned rant on 14th Street.

The talks with city agencles appear from all accounts to be friendly, if inconclusive. "We have attempted to cooperate," said a City Planning Commision spokesman.

There are those who for the long run envision Union Square as the central parklike zone of rejuvenated commerce anchored Klein's on the east. Mays Department Store on the south and some new merch-

Mr. Tanjeloff points to the emergence of the Rizzoli Language Center, an all-languages books, periodicals and records establishment that opened at 860 Broadway, north of the square, last September.

This is not the Union Square that the guidebook writers had in mind when they described it as "a bit of Coney Island" with an "international reputation as the center of America's radical movement" ("New York City Guide," Random House,

But it is a Union Square that appeals to the merch-ants. "When Klein's opena I will be glad," said Ida the Pretzel Lady. "Right now I am a dead person."

And Busting Out All Over

$10 Million Sought From IDS Realty The financially troubled IDS Realty Trust, a Minnesota-based real estate investment trust, said yesterday that one of its bank creditors, the First National Bank of St. Paul, had demanded immediate payment of a note in the amount of $10 million. The trust said it would not pay the oote and if the bank insisted that it, the trust, might seek the protection of bankruptcy courts.

Business Briefs

The announcement prompted the New York Stock Exchange to halt trading of common shares of IDS. The Exchange said the halt would remain in effect pending resolution of the uncertainty surrounding the situation,

Meanwhile Builders Investment Group, which abandoned its real estate investment trust status after running into considerable floancial trouble with its loans, annouoced renegotiation of $380 million in debt, most of it held by banks. The agreement, in part, calls for a reductioo of interest payments to one percent of priocipal initially and exteods the maturity date of most loans to Sept.

Employees Insurance Cutbacks Set

The Government Employees Insurance Company, one of the nation's major fire and casualty insurers, plans to eliminate 1,000 job positions this year and reduce its insurance writings by 20 percent, a company official said yes-

In confirming reports made earlier to this effect, Vernon Phelphs, spokesman for the District of Columbiabased insurer, said management was taking these steps as part of an overall program to improve the company's fioancial health. GEICO, the second-largest automobile insurer in the state of New York, has already begun shutting down some offices here. Earlier this week the company reported a 1975 operating loss of $124.2 million, compared with a 1974 profit of $26.1 million or $1.48 per share.

The 36-bank group was hesded jointly by Citicorp International Bank Ltd. and Manufacturers Hanover Ltd., which made the five-year loan at 17/8 percent above the London interbank rate.

According to Citicorp International, São Paulo state plans to use the proceeds for extending the subway system in the City of São Paulo, and to expand highways serving that metropolitan region.

Dollar Slips in Europe; Gold Is Off

BRUSSELS, March 2 (UPI)—The dollar today lost some of Monday's sharp gains on all European money markets except Paris and Milan. In quiet trading, the price of gold dropped $1 in Zurich to $131.37 and 75 cents in London to $131.50. Dealers reported light selling following lower overnight United States advices.

In Milan, the Italian lira lost almost 3 percent of its value when it rose from Monday's 771.25 lire to the dollar to 794.50 at today's close.

In Frankfurt, the dollar dipped from Monday's 2.58 marks to 2.5755, in Zurich from 2.5921 francs to 2.5869. In Brussels from 40.35 francs to 40.34, and in Amsterdam from 2.695 guilders to 2.6870. In London tha pound strengthened from $2.02275 to $2.02375.

It Was June in February

was mostly a time for rejoicing, regardless of what comes next. "They are singing as if it were spriog already," said Robert C. Boardman, an Au-dubon Society official. "Gen-erally." he went on, "birds doo't sing in the winter. They start singing in the oesting season in the spring, when they are staking out their territories." Mr. Boardman included cardinals, blackbirds, house finches and mourning doves among the early celebraots.

Sig Feile, a Freeport gar-den-shop owner, is an authority on the springtime activities of another species, Homo sapiens, and he asserts they are more astute than some of the other animals. They generally understand that these early warm days sre just pieces," he said, "and that winter is not quite

"Whenever there are warm days people get the fever and ask about plants," Mr. Feile said, but he noted that most shipments of outdoor plants did not begin to arrive in this area until mid-March, regardless of the weather.
The plants, often from California and Oregon, arrive ready to grow, Mr. Felle said, and a frost later can kill them. He added that shruhs already in the ground will not be hurt by a late frost because they are still in a dormant stage.

In Hudson, N.Y., the Co-lumbia County extension service agent said the unusual warm spell had had little effect on local farmers. "If you call back in mid-April," he said, "we will know if we had soil movement that damaged crnps." Soil movement is caused by alternate freezing and thawing of the ground and, Mr. Rogers said, it can damage roots, particularly in alfalfa fields. Alfalfa is grown for hay for dairy cows. So far, however, no problems have been detected, Mr. Rogers said.

The warm weather has proved to be a boon for apple and grape growers, who have been able to prune earlier and more easily. "We've got most of our spring work done already." said Eric Miller, whose father, Mark Miller, owns Benmari Vineyards in Marlboro, oear Newburgh. Mr. Miller said several va-ingl Pinot Chardonnay and rieties of wine grapes, loclud-Baco Noir, had begun to bud, However, he said, air circulation in Benmaris hillside vineyards tends to keep late frosts about 10 ground.

. At the same time, the people at Benmari were hapwhen temperatures dropped nearer to normal last week. "When the tempperature got down to 29 or 30 on Sunday, we opened a bottle of champaigne," Mr.

Miller said. For many farmers and horticulturists, a late frost is not so serious as a frost cou-pled with wind. "A lot of plants can take the cold," said Michael Ware of the Essex County Park Commission in New Jersey. "It's the desiccating effect of the wind that kills them."

Mr. Ware said the warm days in January had more of an effect on the county park system's trees and plants than the relatively high tem-peratures of the last few

"We had some forsythia he bloom in January, said. The recent heat wave caused some premature swelling of buds, he said, and stirred to life many more insects than normally would be expected at this time of year. But, Mr. Ware said, there were few premature

About New York

Sanford Garelik's Turf

By JOHN CORRY

Sanford D. Garelik was in his office, surrounded by charts. They were red, orange and blue, and more or less unintelligible unless you knew how to read them. Mr. Garelik knew bow to read them, and so be was smiling. When Mr. Garelik was president of the City Council he hardly ever smiled, and sometimes he seemed sunken in gloom, as if City Hall were a sepulcher and he wanted to say Kaddish. Now Mr. Gare-lik is once again a cop. He

"Most exciting police de-partment in the country," he said. "Tenth largest police department in the country." Mr. Garelik was talking about the Transit Authority Police. He is now their chief roice. He is dow their chief inspector.

"Right, Chief," an assistant said. "Man for man, the city police couldn't even shine our shoes now."

Mr. Garelik, who was once chief investigator of the city police did not agree with his police, did not agree with his assistant. Ha did not disagree, either. "Felooy arrests are up 71 percent this year over the same period last year," be said. "Felony complaints with no arrests are down 33 per-cent. What we had to do was develop this department. Make it Marine Corps. Make them working troops.

It is a fact that in the past the Transit Authority Police have not been highly thought of by other cops. In the past, there were Transit Authority police who went 10 years between arrests and who, most of the time, pa-trolled Irving Goldman's gum-ball machines. This was not gond police work. Whan Mr. Garelik came in as chief inspector a year ago he changed things. There are no bureaucracies so en-trenched as police bureaucracies, however, and the changes were accompanied by pain. Of the 200 Transit Authority detectives who were there when Mr. Garelik came in, for instance, 70 bave chosen to retire. Mr. Garelik also demoted seven detectives. Mr. Garelik is oot really popular with the detective squad.

'The Chief said, 'No more Pretty Boy Floyds walking around. You had a lot of first-graders, making as much money as lieutenants, and they wouldn't even answer the phone," Mr. Garelik's as-smiled. They were being cops together. Mr. Garelik, meanwhile. was looking at his charts. Was looking at his charts. He has charts on everything, and they tell of crime and money. Charts proliferate in Mr. Garelik's office, and sometimes be looks at them and then whips out a pocket

"You sound like a cop.

Mr. Garelik said that last year the Transit Authority police were paid $2,266,000 for overtime. This year, he said, overtime expenses should be about $50,000. He said that when he came in said that when he came in as chief inspector 4 percent of the citizens were beating the city on subway fares by bopping over or darting under the turnstiles. Now, he said, the minimum figure is well under 1 percent.

Mr. Garelik said that the city had gained $15 million a year because of the crackdown on the fare-evaders. He said that, with one new program or another, the city had gained $40 million in all since he became chief inspector. The charts proved it.

"Here," he said, propping up another chart. It showed 21 percent of the people who were being picked up a fare-evaders in the Bronx had been picked up as fare-evaders before. It also showed that when they had been picked up the first time the judges in the Bronx were very understanding. The average fine worked out to 99 cents.

In Queens, however, only 4 percent of the people who were being picked up as fare-evaders bad been picked up before. The judges in Queens had not been quite so understanding the first time the fare-evaders had come before them. The average fine in Queens had been $10.49.

Mr. Garelik, who is philo-sophical said something about crime and punishment Then he said be had liked the movie. The Taking of Pelbam 1, 2, 3." He said he'd like to see transit cops shown

Genteel Head of H.R.A. RESCUE IS NEAR

James Henry Smith

When Mayor Beame turned to a mild-maonered, soft-spoken actuary and retired insurance executive, J. Henry Smith, to take charge of the city's immense welfare prob-lems, Mr. Smith'a selection — and acceptaoceprise to his asso-ciates who know him as a doer, a mooey-wise businessman with a social conscience. Mr. Smith, whose appointment as Human Re-sources Administrator was announced yesterday, spent most of his career with tha Equitable Life Assurance Society before stepping down as its chairman last April. Outside his professional field, be made a reputation for him-self as a man willing to contribute his considerable expertise and influence to help overcome social ills and grinding poverty.

. To Be Honored May 6

The oew Administrator, who will turn 66 on March 29, has sat oo Presidential commissions and has been active for a number of years in the promotion of black capitalism as a means of bringing new life to the inner city. His civic associations include the New York Urban Coalition, the Drug Abuse Council and the Urban Developmeot Council of the City of New York.

Colocidentally, it became known yesterday that the Urban Coalitioo is scheduled to recognize Mr. Smith's efforts on behalf of minority bosinesses by honoring him with one of its annual Frederick Douglass awards on May 6.

"During the turbulent 1960's, when many businesses were moving out of minority neighborhoods, Mr. Smith worked to keep businesses in place and to set up new minority enterprises," noted Horace W. C'mon in, the people are fine. And funny. And fizzy. And full of lively life.

They're fascinating, which makes them People's kind of people. They're the reason more and more people out there are picking up People every week.

Our rate base? It's up to 1,600,000 after just two years. Our readers? They're 9,856,000* strong.

Every week, they read People cover to cover because it's their special magazine...like no other magazine there is. People is now. It's The Scene. It's where the life-styles are. Yes, it's the mid-70's in print. And make no mistake, these are the mid-70's people.

They're young, educated, prospering, urban. They're moving upward and onward. They're curious about everything under the sun. They're eager to try on all kinds of new ideas. They make a unique new marketplace for most any kind of people products. Cars, cosmetics, clothes, appliances, liquor, travel, credit cards...you name it.

And you can afford to reach them with important frequency. Because People's out-of-pocket cost is low, low, low. C'mon in to the new model magazine. The new media option. The whole new way to go, go, go.

Suddenly, it's the place to be.
